Nationalist Cloak . . . . . . For Exploiters

Quebec Corrupt, Graft-Ridden, Ruled by Demagogues—CCFer

MME. THERESE CASGRAIN

MONTREAL (CP)—Mme. Therese Casgrain, Quebec CCF leader, said Tuesday Quebec is one of the most cynically corrupt and graft-ridden areas in North America.

Quebec residents have too often continued to elect demagogues, "whose principal aim is to exploit them under the cloak of divisive nationalism and isolation."

The 57-year-old Montreal grandmother, twice defeated in bids for a House of Commons seat, spoke on the CBC Trans-Canada network.

MISS BENEFITS

She said:

"The people of Quebec have yet to gain command of their own economy or reap the benefits of their own rich and bountiful resources. Instead of electing leaders who will serve their social and economic interests, who will press forward to give them so many things that are so badly needed, they have too often continued to elect demagogues."

Quebec residents had no quarrel with the rest of Canada, nor did they wish to isolate themselves from Canadian progress.

"They ask only to be treated as equals, not superciliously as an inferior minority. As equals, they would expect to work toward finding solutions for many common problems—the fairer distribution of wealth, the improvement of social and living conditions, the greater provision for health and welfare, the endowment of Canadians everywhere with the cultural knowledge and resources to enjoy the leisure time that modern technology will bring them."

GUARD CULTURE

French - speaking Canadians should be vigilant to guard their 350-yetar-old culture "against the onslaughts of urbanization and industrialization."

"To my mind, we're not French enough. For instance, I'd like to see our police wear cloak and kepi, as they do in Paris, not the standardized New York garb they wear today."

City CO Speaks:

Lick Russians? We Can Beat Any Army!

By PETER BRUTON

Controversial statement by a high-ranking air force officer that Canada's armed forces could "lick the hell out of Russians" was defended here yesterday by Lieut.-Col. W. H. Matthews, officer commanding the Queen's Own Rifles.

LIEUT.-COL. W. H. MATTHEWS

"I think you should allow us to say that," the veteran army officer told Victoria Kiwanis Club. "We ourselves are not belligerent but believe me we have one of the best armies in the world."

The controversial statement caused a furore last year when it was made by Air Commodore Fred S. Carpenter.

"Allow us to be arrogant," said Col. Matthews, "because if we are not the best army in the world then you are being gypped out of your tax dollars."

He said there had been a lot of criticism over the statement about being able to beat the Russians.

"I think you should allow Air Commodore Carpenter or anyone else to say that," the army officer said.

"You own the only professional army in the world today and as such our standards should be higher than any other army," he said.

Col. Matthews told the service club members that manpower had always been a problem but "the army is not a bit interested, one way or the other" whether or not conscription was introduced in Canada.

YOUR BUSINESS

"That's your business, not ours," he said. "Our job is to train men and we don't mind if those men are conscripts or volunteers."

There used to be a saying, he continued, that when an army was forced into a war it used the weapons of the last war for a start. But that had now changed and nothing could be farther from the truth.

"In the next 18 months we will see the last of the weapons we had in the Second World War," Col. Matthews said.

Critics of the Canadian Army very often said the present-day weapons were obsolete and that was true in many cases.

"We know very well that better weapons are on the drawing board, perhaps even in production," Col. Matthews said. "But we must have something, we accept the best at the time, put it in production knowing very well that it will probably be obsolete when we use it."

TAXPAYER HELPED

It was obvious, however, that the army could not jump on every new weapon that came along, he continued. Everything was done with a view of protecting the taxpayer's dollar.

Since the regiment had been stationed in Victoria the officers and men had been paid a total of $1,811,256—all but eight per cent of which came to the city of Victoria, he said.

Seven men from the regiment had been convicted under the criminal code of Canada since arriving here but on a per capita basis this was two less than the figures for the civilian population of the city, concluded Col. Matthews.

Safe after Crash

PRINCESS MARGARET

Involved in a minor collision with another car Tuesday while travelling in a Rolls-Royce to London, Princess Margaret escaped injury, and her car suffered only slight damage. The collision occurred at Stanborough, Hertfordshire, while the princess was being driven from the royal residence at Sandringham to Clarence House, her London home.

Pastor Held In Church Robberies

HINDSDALE, Mass. (AP)—Rev. George L. Davis, who came here from Hamilton, Ont., in 1952, pleaded not guilty Monday to charges of stealing religious articles from several churches.

The case was adjourned to May 15 and bail was set at $2,000. The minister was charged on two counts of theft, one involving a crucifix owned by Trinity Episcopal church in Lenox, Mass., and the other a chalice valued at more than $300. The chalice was owned by Rev. Joseph J. Conney of St. Charles' Roman Catholic church in Pittsfield.

Three Choices

Hall Decision Facing Voters

A three-way choice concerning Saanich municipal office facilities may face the ratepayers late this month or early in June.

In a compromise move Saanich council last night gave first reading to a by-law which will earmark $70,000 tax-sale lands funds, approved in the estimates, for one of the following:

1. Enlargement and renovation of the existing Royal Oak hall.
2. Erection of an additional building or buildings adjacent to the present hall.
3. Erection of a new municipal hall at a convenient site in the municipality.

When finally passed, the by-law carries the stipulation in amendment requesting the lieutenant-governor-in-council to call for a referendum, which, according to the Municipal Act, must be held no sooner than 10 nor later than 30 days after the bill is passed.

In the first show of unanimity on the question, council members stated they would go to the ratepayers "in complete accord and as one" in order to convince voters of the dire necessity for larger administrative facilities.

Council was split down the middle between old and new members on the question of whether to refer the matter to the ratepayers until Coun. J. Ronald Grant hastily drafted an amendment to the by-law, which found unanimous support from both sides.

Reeve Arthur Ash, who stated earlier that he would put up a stiff fight to get immediate action on a municipal hall addition, finally threw in his support of the reworded by-law, "even though it effects further delays which I regret very much."

Council's action was "a step forward," said Coun. Grant, who pointed out that a stalemate on the question would delay the pressing project indefinitely.

Not included in the by-law is the appropriation of an additional $55,000 municipal revenue surplus which will make a total of $125,000 available for the project.

SECOND REFERENDUM

If the majority of voting ratepayers are in favor of a new municipal hall, a second referendum will be necessary to vote additional borrowing powers for council to cover the expense of the bigger project.

All councillors agreed from the start of the evening that more administrative space was necessary to carry on the municipality's business in some degree of efficiency.

However, veteran council members Leslie Passmore, George Austin and Eugene Diespecker—balked at Mr. Ash's pressure for expediency over the ratepayer's heads.

After relinquishing the chair to Coun. Austin in order to give his arguments, the reeve pointed out that funds set aside for the project were surpluses, not necessitating the ratepayers' blessing for expenditure.

He told Council members that since 1950 Victoria had spent more than $250,000 in reverted lands without calling for a referendum.

Doctor Laws, Oxford

Woman Tutor Jibes At Truman Degree

OXFORD, England (AP)—Oxford University formally decided Tuesday to confer an honorary degree on Harry Truman over the heated objections of a woman tutor.

The university will grant a doctorate of civil law to the former American president at a ceremony June 20.

Gladys Anscome, tutor in philosophy at Somerville College, startled a convocation of university instructors and officials, by criticizing the part Truman played in the dropping of atom bombs on Japan in 1945.

Miss Anscome said she expected her objections to be overridden but declared: "If you do this dishonor, what Nero, what Genghis Khan, what Hitler or what Stalin will not be honored in the future?"

The convocation overwhelmingly opposed Miss Anscombe's position. Alan Bullock, a censor, said the decision to use the bomb was taken to speed the ending of the war and avoid the massive casualties an invasion of Japan would have involved.

Truman will receive the degree when he visits England during a European tour this summer.

Bird-Watchers Agog

Mad Meadowlark Cardinal Singer

TORONTO (CP) — A crazy, mixed-up meadowlark that sings like a cardinal has district bird-watchers flocking to the suburban Port Credit home of Mrs. Lucy MacDougall.

This, say the experts, is staggering: A meadowlark's song is entirely unlike that of a cardinal.

Their only explanation: The meadowlark lost its family at an early age and was raised by a bunch of cardinals.

Meanwhile, scores of bird-watchers clog the approaches to Mrs. MacDougall's home each weekend to hear the bird with the misplaced music. Several thousand persons belong to bird-watching clubs in the Toronto area.

Nepal's King To Be Crowned Today

KATMANDU, Nepal (Reuters)—Centuries of Oriental pomp and majesty were symbolized Tuesday as King Mahendra of Nepal was purified in preparation for his lavish coronation today.

Asia's only Hindu king, believed by his people to be a reincarnation of the god Vishnu, went through the ceremonial purification rites by hymn-singing Brahmin priests in the ancient palace of Hanuman, the monkey god.

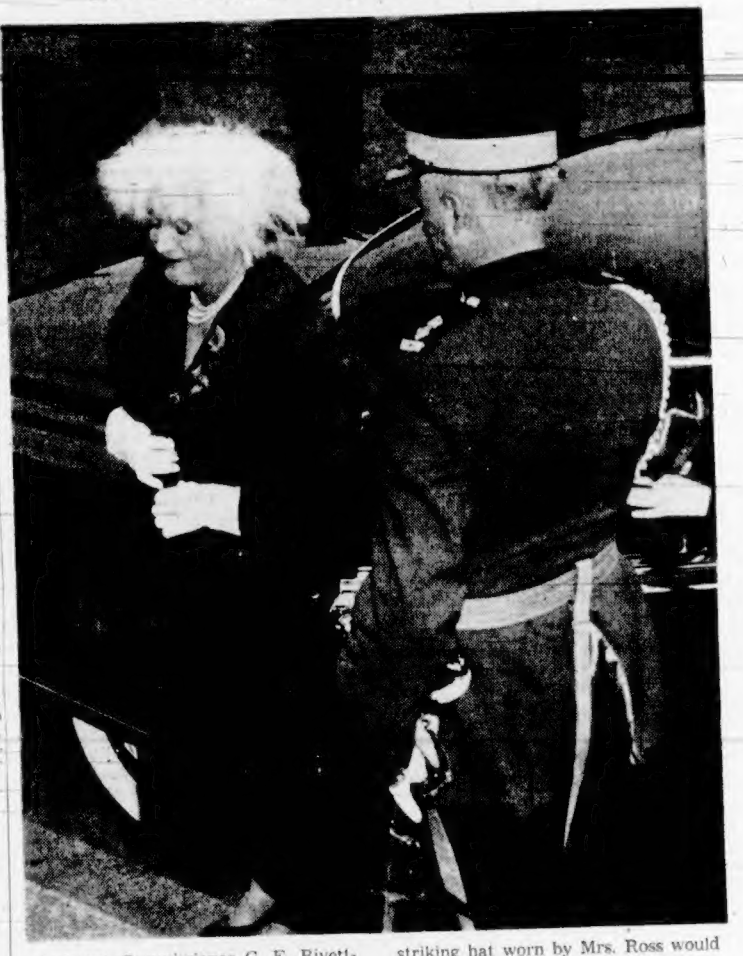
The 35-year-old ruler, dressed in plain white and wearing a skull-cap, sat with his red-robed queen outside a thatched canopy over the coronation dais during Tuesday's ceremonies.

Accepting some grain and vermilion powder from a high priest, King Mahendra threw them over an idol. The priests then knelt before him in homage one by one and chanted Hindu hymns.

The potentate will be consecrated king at ceremonies never before witnessed by foreigners.

Wearing a jewel-encrusted crown topped by plumes of birds of paradise, King Mahendra will be enthroned ninth king of Nepal at exactly 17 minutes to 11 in the morning — the most auspicious time, according to his astrologers.

Er . . . Madam . . . About That Hat . . .



Assistant Commissioner C. E. Rivett-Carnac of the RCMP assists Mrs. Frank Ross, wife of B.C.'s lieutenant-governor, from limousine at opening of legislature Jan. 17, unaware that striking hat worn by Mrs. Ross would later be seized by his force because it was made of white egret feathers which are illegal in Canada.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan).

Fine Feathers

Mrs. Ross' Fancy Hat Under RCMP Seizure

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP still has under seizure the egret-feather hat which Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross, wife of British Columbia's lieutenant-governor, wore to the opening of the B.C. legislature this year.

Egret feathers, it turns out, are illegal in Canada, but no charges will be laid against Mrs. Ross, the RCMP said Tuesday. She didn't know they were illegal.

To start at the beginning:

After Mrs. Ross wore the $150 hat, bought in Montreal, to the legislature opening, a picture of her and the hat and a story appeared in the press.

Somebody who knew that egret feathers are prohibited entry to Canada under the customs tariff began to talk about it or wrote a letter. The RCMP file is not clear on this point.

Anyway, Mrs. Ross heard about it and voluntarily turned over the offending hat to the RCMP.

He established beyond doubt that the feathers came from an egret and were imported illegally from Europe.

An RCMP spokesman said no charge would be laid against Mrs. Ross. The customers could not be expected to examine hat feathers and determine whether they had been illegally imported.

He declined to give the name of the Montreal importer because the case is still under investigation.

It would be up to the national revenue department to decide whether the Montreal firm should be prosecuted.

An egret is a type of heron. Under Canadian law, possession of "the nest or egg or any part of" such a bird is punishable by a fine of up to $300 or six months in jail, or both.

'O-oh!' Cry Ladies

Good Wife Worth $250,000 Declares Author's Helpmate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale got a delighted "o-oh" from several hundred women Tuesday when she said it has been estimated that "a successful wife is worth a quarter of a million dollars to her husband."

"Women, let's take a good look at ourselves," Mrs. Peale, wife of the noted author-clergyman, urged wives of members of the United States Chamber of Commerce at their "ladies' luncheon." The chamber is having its annual meeting here.

She had these tips for women who want to be successful wives to successful men.

1. Be willing to put your life and career into that of your husband even if you have to change your ways.
2. Recognize that at times you may need to get outside help for a good perspective.
3. Learn how to communicate your ideas to your husband.
4. See that God is at the centre of life.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The 1956 forest fire season opened in British Columbia Tuesday. Forestry officials reported "everything under control" although 11 small fires were burning on the lower mainland and Vancouver Island.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

SOMETIMES a man can be too thrifty.

My insistence on using up the leftovers has long been a source of irritation in our house. Every now and then I happen upon a small treasure trove of last week's food in the refrigerator or the larder, and summon my wife with a cry of mingled rage and triumph.

"Look at THAT," I urge, pointing toward the amorphous mass with quivering finger.

"I'm looking," she replies. "What is it?"

"You know what. Perfectly good spaghetti and cheese."

"It has green whiskers on it," my wife replies.

"Why did you give it time to grow whiskers? You could have used it up."

"I offered it to you on Monday, but you didn't feel like spaghetti."

* * *

And the dispute goes on, with a hint on my part that my wife might have eaten the spaghetti herself for lunch, and a promise from her that if the situation ever occurs again she will make me eat every crumb of the stuff, by forcible feeding if need be.

After a long series of defeats in these arguments, I still thought I was right in principle.

However, something happened recently that made me doubt the virtue of intense thrift.

The infant son had a bad cold or 'flu, and the doctor prescribed some medicine. When he ordered the child to stop taking the stuff, there was still half a bottle left.

By a lucky chance, I had a miserable cold myself. So I thriftily used up what was left.

I kept my cold, but two weeks later my feet began to swell and my ankles blossomed with patches of carmine and rose-pink.

I staggered along to the doctor, who traced my trouble to that leftover medicine. I was allergic to it.

* * *

Since that time the rest of my frame has broken out in a spring garden of hives. Various friends have obliged me by diagnosing my case as gout, beri-beri or Peruvian rot, but although I was grateful for their kind interest I assured them that the ailment was nothing else but a case of too much thrift.

However, some good came of it. The medicine I am taking for the hives and sore feet has cured my cold.

Mystery Doings Puzzle Police

VANCOUVER (CP)—RCMP and city police are still at a loss to explain the unusual doings that sent about 10 boats and a flare-dropping aircraft into the Spanish Banks area of Vancouver's English bay Monday night in search of two missing men.

The key witness to it all is missing, as are the two men he first reported missing and then said were safe.

Bruce Walls, 22, who said he is from Athabasca, Alta., was found just before dark Monday night, clinging to a bell buoy.

Taken to hospital here suffering from exposure, he was released early Tuesday and promptly disappeared.

Conflicting stories told to police earlier prompted the mass search. Walls said he and two men named Michael Boyd and John Lawrence rented a sail boat in New Westminster Sunday.

They spent the night aboard and late Monday, while Walls said he was "below deck" on the 12-foot sailboat, he heard a cry and the boat capsized. He jumped clear.

He first said his two companions were last seen swimming toward shore. Later Walls said he last saw them waving to him from the shore, after which they disappeared.

A three-hour search of the water and beach failed to turn up any trace of the missing pair, and confusion was compounded when Walls himself disappeared.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A life-saving blood transfusion will be given a five-week-old baby whose parents objected to the operation.

Family court ordered Tuesday that the baby be turned over to the Children's Aid Society to permit hospital authorities to make the transfusion.

The baby is suffering an RH blood factor condition and physicians said the tiny girl would die if transfusions were delayed.

The parents objected to the transfusion on religious grounds. They are Jehovah's Witnesses.

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Construction crews under direction of British Ropes Canadian Factory Ltd. in Vancouver yesterday began work on replacement of the world-famous 40-year-old suspension bridge spanning the 442-foot Capilano canyon.

A completely new bridge constructed from wire rope will be installed in the same location.

The new bridge, which will be suspended 230 feet above the Capilano river, is expected to be in place before the end of the week.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Court of appeal was told Tuesday that one of the chief witnesses against five men convicted of the attempted murder of a man on False Creek Flats last year has written a statement recanting evidence he gave against them at their trial.

The man, court was told, claims he was threatened by police and gave the evidence he did to ingratiate himself with them.

The disclosure was made as court of appeal heard the appeal of Robert Tremblay, 33; Marcel Frenette, 28; Charles A. Talbot, 36; Lucien Mayers, 49, and James Malgren, 28.

All were jailed for 20 years Kinna suffered fractures of after they were convicted last both legs when he was brutally December of the attempted attacked and beaten with an murder of Thomas Kinna, 29, iron bar.

Nothing but Sand

Tomb Gives No Help To Marlowe Theory

CHISLEHURST, England (UP)—Literary theorists who opened a 500-year-old tomb here yesterday in search of proof that Shakespeare's plays were written by Christopher Marlowe found nothing but a pile of sand.

The tomb of Sir Thomas Walsingham in Scudbury chapel contained neither documents nor visible vestiges of the three bodies believed to be interred there.

The workmen who opened the mausoleum found nothing but a three-foot layer of sand on its brick floor.

There was no indication the tomb had been tampered with, and it appeared the bodies might have been buried under the floor. The searchers do not plan to look any farther.

They had hoped to find Shakespeare manuscripts in Marlowe's handwriting, or some other evidence that he wrote the plays.

Calvin Hoffman, the Long Island drama critic whose theories are largely responsible for the search, was prepared for the probability that the tomb would contain nothing significant.

Marlowe was a contemporary of Shakespeare who showed considerable talent as a playwright before he was killed in a tavern brawl at the age of 29.

Hoffman believes Walsingham faked the killing of Marlowe and spirited the writer away to his estate to save him from trial and probable execution on charges of heresy and treason.

According to this belief, Marlowe lived on for years on the Walsingham estate outside Chislehurst, writing the plays which were published in London under Shakespeare's name.

$10-a-Ton Dogfish Bounty Won't Help Fishermen Here

By GEORGE NICHOLSON

Announcement that the federal fisheries department will pay a $10-a-ton bounty on dogfish, will not help west coast of Vancouver Island fishermen.

Nor is it likely to decrease the numbers of these predatory fish.

That is the opinion of salmon trollers and halibut fishermen now readying their boats for the approaching fishing season.

The bounty is to be paid on all dogfish landed at those reduction plants willing to process them into meal and oil.

But the fishermen point out that there are no reduction plants operating on the west coast during the summer months while the subsidy is in effect.

Also it would cost more than $10 a ton to haul them to Steveston on the Fraser river where the only reduction plant that can handle dogfish is situated.

The fish-buying camps at different points along the coast could never handle them owing to their bulk. They weigh more than 10 pounds each. And who would pay for the ice if they could.

The halibut fishermen say they will continue to kill them and throw them back into the sea as they have always done. And so will the one-man trollers.

Fishermen say that a much more practicable way of ridding the sea of dogfish would be for the government to subsidize the price of dogfish livers, which is now down to five cents a pound and not worth the trouble of saving. They fetched $1.30 a pound during the war.

They say that if they were paid a minimum of 30 cents a pound for the livers it would be an incentive to destroy all dogfish.

Bradley Heads Sidney Works

SIDNEY—Herbert Bradley, chairman of the Sidney village commission, has taken over temporarily as head of the public works committee.

This follows the resignation last week of Joseph Bilgeri, who charged that interference by the commission leader had made his position intolerable.

A permanent replacement will likely be named next week.

Garden Notes

Rake's Progress Improves Work

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Next to the spade, I guess the rake is the most important implement in the garden tool collection, for you can't get very far in the making or maintaining of a garden without a rake of some kind.

For a long time the Chesnut family got along with only two rakes—one of the standard iron-toothed kind for creating a fine breakdown of soil in the seed beds, and a rake of the "Spring hok" type with flexible fingers, which we use almost exclusively for raking up leaves on the lawn.

Then, one day in a moment of dissipation, I blew myself to a Dunn rake—this is the kind with a head made of sheet metal and with teeth like a saw—and I don't think I could get along without it now, for it is without question the best implement I have ever run into for cleaning and scarifying the lawn.

FINE AND WIDE

The more teeth an iron-toothed rake has, the finer the soil can be broken down for seed sowing, and of course, the wider the rake, the more work you get done per stroke. That's for me—I buy the widest rake I can find.

The better makes are welded to the socket into which the handle fits, and my favorite is the bow-type, in which the head is supported by the two ends rather than by the middle. The cheaper types have only a metal shank which is driven into a hole in the wooden handle and covered with a ferrule.

You can buy this type for as little as $1.50, but in my experience, they are a constant source of irritation—one good pull and the rake head comes right out of the handle. It is better to pay a little more—around $2.50—and get one which stays put.

BEST WHEN DRY

One needs a sense of timing in using the iron-toothed rake. If the weather is fine, it is far better to leave the raking of a seed bed for a day or two after the digging rather than to follow it up immediately, as this gives the surface soil a chance to dry out a little, so the lumps will powder down easily at the touch of the rake. Raking just before rain is bad business, for a finely pulverized surface will puddle and cake.

The first raking of a seed bed is to get it nice and level, and to remove all sticks, stones and rubbish. Following this, the bed should be trodden down, not by stamping on it, but with a kind of shuffling motion.

Soft spots may show up during this treading, in which case the whole bed should be raked and trodden again. Then comes the final raking, after which the furrows can be made and the seed sown.

THREE KINDS

The broom-type rake for raking up leaves comes in quite a variety of materials and prices. The bamboo rake is the cheapest, and with some care, you can get about two years' use out of one.

The same type but with long, flexible spring steel teeth will cost around $1.75, but should last indefinitely.

There is one made of plastic, beautifully light and well-balanced, and a joy to use, but I've never been able to get more than a single season's work out of this type before the plastic teeth broke off.

The Dunn rake—the one with the saw teeth—is a wonderful tool for getting all the moss and dead grass out of the lawn. In using it for this job, keep the handle low, so the teeth are almost vertical to the ground, and move the rake back and forth over a section of the lawn with a push-pull motion, without lifting the head on the push stroke. In this way, the teeth clean themselves on the return stroke.

This is a most useful rake, too, for spreading a load of top dressing evenly over the lawn, and it can be used for pulling off the heads of dandelions before they can go to seed.

Parks' Jobs For Students

A dozen or so of the Victoria College students currently seeking summer employment are expected to go to work soon in the city parks department.

Applicants for summer jobs were interviewed yesterday at city hall. Terry FitzPatrick, personnel officer, said about 30 men would be taken on in the parks department, and that it was "a good guess" that half of them would be college students.

Mental Illness Treatments 'Risky, Useless'

CHICAGO (AP) — A specialist in mental diseases claims that psychiatry, shock treatments, brain surgery and drugs have failed to solve the problem of mental illness.

Dr. Percival Bailey, director of the Illinois State Psychiatric Institute of Chicago, lashed out at many methods of treating mental states as dangerous or ineffectual.

In a speech prepared for the annual meeting of the American Psychiatric Association, Dr. Bailey, a former specialist in brain surgery, said:

"The task of psychiatrists, it seems to me, is to get back in the asylums and laboratories, which they are so proud to have left, and prove, by established criteria, that their concepts have scientific validity."

He had been "frankly appalled" by the results of lobotomy — a surgical procedure for treating certain mental conditions by severing nerve pathways to a frontal lobe of the brain.

"The most favorable result seems to be that the disturbed patients, after lobotomy, are easier to handle in the hospital."

Dr. Bailey said insulin shock treatment in certain mental states is "less dramatic and brutal" than electric shock treatment "but its effects are also transitory in schizophrenics and there is a temptation to use it, as in the case with lobotomy, as another substitute for administration, more personnel and larger budgets."

"Moreover, this treatment sometimes leaves organic syndromes more serious than broken backs, such as the loss of memory or impulsive and violent behavior."

He said that "lately the crowd has rushed to a new series of drugs" such as the "tranquilizers" but drugs do not seem to be the answer to the problem. He contended that Sigmund Freud's theories of the causes of mental illness were ill-founded and abandoned by Freud himself, but still are embraced by some practitioners.

"One wonders how long the hoary errors of Freud will continue to plague psychiatry."

Head Red Admits Mistake

TORONTO (CP)—Tim Buck of Toronto, leader of the Labor-Progressive (Communist) party, told a May Day rally Tuesday night his party erred in its support of Joseph Stalin as premier of Russia and leader of world communism.

Speaking from a flag - draped rostrum, Mr. Buck, recently returned from the 20th congress of the Communist party of the Soviet Union in Moscow, said the support of Stalin had been a mistake.

"We accepted the cult of the great man, the theory of the great leader," he said. "We joined in the great area in which Stalin's word was accepted without question."

At the time of Stalin's death, Mr. Buck told a meeting "tears would flow in the streets" if the people of Canada realized what they had lost by his death.

Nurse Tells Inquiry:

Nude Mental Patient Paraded

SYDNEY, N. S. (CP)—A receptionist at the Cape Breton county mental hospital told a royal commission Tuesday of seeing a naked woman paraded before other patients.

Dorothy Quirk, a registered nurse, was on the witness stand more than three hours.

Miss Quirk was one of the hospital employees who helped launch the investigation into the institution by talking about conditions to members of the joint expenditure board.

Five other employees signed affidavits and the commission was set up to investigate the hospital.

As the commission resumed hearings after an eight-day recess, Miss Quirk told of seeing an attendant take a naked patient through the sitting room where other patients were sitting around.

"The patient started to sing. She did sort of a wild dance and fell on the floor roared and laughed. to the floor. All the others sitting shown a patient in a third-floor strongroom and was shocked.

I certainly didn't think this was right."

Another time, she said, she was "She was sitting in the room naked. I thought people treated their dogs in Sydney better than that. She didn't have a mattress or anything and she had sores all down one side of her hip."

Federal Grants Demanded For 'Sacred Cow', Schools

OTTAWA (CP)—R. R. Knight, CCF Commons member and former high school teacher, dared the government Tuesday to do something about the "sacred cow" of education and help municipalities bear school costs.

He said the government is pussy-footing and rationalizing when it denies aid to education on the ground that the constitution gives the provinces jurisdiction in this field.

Grants could be made "without interfering one iota with provincial jurisdiction," said Mr. Knight, member for Saskatoon.

OTHER PARTIES AGREE

Members of other opposition parties agreed.

George Nowland (PC—Digby-Annapolis-Kings) said his party has often urged that the federal government could assist education without interfering with provincial control.

George Hahn (SC—New Westminster) said federal help would simply be grants for provinces to use as they see fit.

Mr. Knight presented his proposal as an amendment to a Conservative motion put forward Monday calling for sales and excise tax exemptions on purchases by municipalities and school boards and for full payment of municipal taxes on federal property.

Both motions, in effect want-of-confidence motions, were presented in the two-day debate on the financial problems of municipal governments.

WOULDN'T HEAR TRUSTEES

Mr. Knight said Prime Minister St. Laurent and Finance Minister Harris do not dare to advocate aid to education. The prime minister had even refused to hear a delegation representing a national organization of school trustees.

Suspended By Her Feet, Woman Trapped in Shaft

TORONTO (BUP) — Mrs. Mary Tangas reported to work Tuesday at the Woolworth Building, recovered from injuries received while trapped in a freight elevator shaft Saturday night.

The 30-year-old woman hung by her feet from the door of the elevator, wedged between the shaft and the elevator. She was apparently getting off when it started and her feet were caught in the closing doors.

The elevator was stopped between the first and second floors and after 40 minutes, Mrs. Tangas was freed by firemen. She suffered lacerations to both ankles and arms and shock.

The rescue squad used long ladders, planks and a special jack to free the woman. A nurse mounted the ladder to administer sedatives. A salvage crew working from above cut a hole in the elevator with an acetylene torch.

This Is No Solution

SUBMISSIONS made by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to the Royal commission on broadcasting illustrate the perplexing nature of the problem of financing the publicly-owned radio and television systems. The CBC has never yet been able to operate within its legitimate income, which is derived from fees paid by sponsors and special taxes levied on purchases of receivers on the user-pay principle. It has been able to carry on only by means of multi-million dollar "loans" year after year granted by Parliament. These, of course, can never be repaid; which means that general taxes are being used to subsidize entertainment available to or desired by only part of the population.

As the CBC expands its coverage and attempts to improve the quality of its programs so the per capita cost to the taxpayers as a whole goes up, for the gap between legitimate revenue and operating expense is a broadening one. This is reflected in the increased amount of assistance asked from Parliament each year and is due to the fact that the CBC's expenses are rising faster than the increase in revenue from the tax on sales of receivers and parts. If matters go on this way the cost will soon be out of all proportion to the value of service given—if it has not reached that point already.

As a solution the CBC in its brief to the commission suggests a return to a direct annual tax on owners of sets, the system of partial financing which was discontinued in the case of radio in 1953. It never has applied to TV receivers, which from the beginning of CBC-TV have been taxed only on purchase, at 15 per cent. The corporation believes that a tax of $15 a year on each home with a TV set would cover the cost of programs, though past experience would suggest that this is an optimistic estimate.

Many people, especially those who don't want or can't have TV, will subscribe to the view that the user should pay all the cost. On the other hand the main reason for abolishing the $2.50 annual tax on radios was that the difficulty and expense of collection made the net return not worth while. What reason has the CBC for supposing that a $15 licence on TV would produce better results? The number of people who successfully evaded the old radio tax was probably more than the number of those who paid, and the yield in proportion is unlikely to be much different in the case of TV. Besides losses through evasion, the cost of house-to-house collection of the radio tax ate up too much of the returns; and no other practicable method of collection has been proposed.

Some solution of the CBC's financial problem is needed; but this does not appear to be it.

Putting Up the Costs

WHILE we have never been impressed by the argument that the Crown should pay taxes, should the Dominion impose a tax on a tax, such as is done when municipalities are forced to pay sales levies on municipal supplies and excise taxes on a companion range of articles? This follows when the bill goes before the civic taxpayers: there is first the charge for the cost of the goods, and then the superimposed addition of the federal sales or excise taxes. The municipal taxpayer pays all, and is at that moment certainly paying a tax on a tax, which is against the basic principle of just taxation.

Finance Minister Harris' reply in the House of Commons this week has made it clear that the administration is standing pat on its former decision. Opposition groups urged the government to eliminate sales and excise taxes on municipal routine requirements. These include new library books, microscopes for schools, signposts made by Victoria for its own streets, janitorial and office supplies and a very wide range of small purchases inevitable in any municipality's budget. By reason of the tax on a tax thus exacted the Victoria public library this year will not buy as many new books as it otherwise would be able to do; the city may continue to manufacture signposts, but at the added taxed costs; and excise levies will be paid in small amounts on a surprisingly large variety of things bought with municipal dollars.

Whatever may be the necessities Mr. Harris sees for his current budget, is it reasonable for the Dominion to continue such forms of purely artificial costs against the municipalities? The difference between collecting and not collecting such items cannot be great after the cost of collection has been deducted. The municipalities may never establish all of their claims for the payment of taxes by the Crown, but the rules of equity suggest that they should be relieved of the double-impost features of federal enactment. If the cities did not maintain public libraries someone else would have to do so. If they did not signpost their streets there would be a protest from the postal department.

If the minister of finance would pause to analyse the current position of the municipalities across Canada, he would understand the degree to which their mounting costs are being borne in part by the Provinces, and that the pressure of the Provinces themselves on the Dominion includes the result of taxes levied and collected twice and three times over. The Dominion could well afford to give a lead by removing the imposts created by red federal tape. No tax on a tax can be equitable.

The Empty Tomb

IF he ever turned over while watching the antics of his would-be detractors, Shakespeare can now rest easy in his grave. Another tomb has been opened but the debunker who sought to impugn the bard of Avon has been frustrated. The document he hoped would prove that Shakespeare was merely the front man for another dramatist in hiding was not there. Accredited scholars had affirmed it would not be there for the simple reason that Shakespeare was Shakespeare and nobody else, and once more they are sustained. So it has been ever since the first whisper arose to suggest that the world's greatest dramatist was a fake.

It is surprising that genius should be so suspect, and the conclusion must be that it derives from envy. Shakespeare is not alone in this respect; scarcely a year passes without some acid critic attempting to belittle the laurels of a famous man, either of action or of the pen. In the case of the great Elizabethan dramatist the excuse has been that his early life could not validate so vast and commanding an intelligence, that a perfunctory education could not make credible the widespread knowledge contained in the canon of his plays. All this is argument to no purpose, for genius is not explainable, nor is it limited by formal erudition.

No doubts ever assailed Shakespeare's contemporaries about the man and his works, and they knew him well. It was left to later eras, to the literary sleuths who create mysteries if there is none lying ready-made to solve, to evolve theories which like the latest example do not stand too acute examination. Shakespeare has been too big a man for his detractors and the empty Walsingham tomb is one more proof of his ascendancy. One of these days all men will be content to accept him without reserve for what he was, a poet beyond peer either in his own or succeeding times.

Interpreting the News

Acceptance of an Idea

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

THE vague speech made last week by Secretary Dulles about expanding the economic and political role of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is producing the results he intended—an extended discussion by leaders of other nations.

Dulles accepted, in general, suggestions already made in other member countries and advised them the United States would approve if they became more specific.

* * *

The result has been a rather general acceptance of the idea of political expansion—under which members would advise with and consult each other on all matters of mutual or even bilateral interest, including economic.

As for actual economic co-operation, there is a division of opinion.

First, the British are more interested in the political features of any action taken. They cannot make economic commitments in Europe which might affect their trade relations with other Commonwealth nations which are not members of NATO. But Britain is agreed that NATO offers a vehicle for conducting the type of economic warfare which Russia is now emphasizing.

Others would merely like to see the United States tied into the Organization for European Economic Co-operation.

Some think the NATO nations would do better to make their contributions to world economic development through the United Nations, where Russia and the United States could both be pinned down to do or not do their share as a social, economic and humanitarian contribution rather than as a part of their contest for world supremacy.

All realize that the Western powers started the economic war, and that in a way Russia's present activities are a counter-attack instead of a new phase of that conflict. They realize that this economic conflict might produce victory or defeat in the contest between Communism and democratic capitalism for world dominance, without shooting war.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes and ships and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

READERS of Oscar Wilde know the fantasy he perpetrated with Dorian Gray when he caused his creation to retain the fresh bloom of youth while etching his sins upon an innocent oil portrait.

The theme was in accord with an age-old search for the elixir of life about which scientists and philosophers, as well as novelists, have waxed eloquent throughout the centuries.

The "liquid dew of youth," as the son of Polonius described it to his sister, Ophelia. Shakespeare was intrigued by the subject also.

So in a way was Alexander Woollcott, the original man who came to dinner and stayed, and a reconteur par excellence, as a slim little volume called "Long, Long Ago" reminded me the other night.

* * *

Woolcott was discussing, in one of those brief personality sketches he enriches with apt and scholarly analysis, a favorite of his, J. M. Barrie, who at the moment of Woollcott's writing was being borne to his last resting place in Kirriemuir. Barrie, it seems, had been one of the financial backers of Captain Scott's fateful expedition to the South Pole—a fact not generally known—and Woollcott was recalling the last letter penned by the explorer as he lay in the trackless wastes of the Antarctic waiting for the end near at hand.

The letter was to Barrie, and the creator of Peter Pan took it with him to St. Andrew's when he was called upon to deliver a famous address on courage. He showed it to the university students there, and of Captain Scott he had this to say:

"When I think of Scott I remember the strange Alpine story of the youth who fell down a glacier and was lost, and of how a scientific companion, one of several who accompanied him, all young, computed that the body would again appear at a certain date and place many years afterwards. When that time came round some of the survivors returned to the glacier to see if the prediction would be fulfilled: all old men now; and the body reappeared as young as on the day he left them.

* * *

Woollcott did not query the questing spirit that makes men brave danger to add to the sum of human knowledge, but thinking further of Barrie he took down G. K. Chesterton's book on Charles Dickens, and as a private memorial service, he says, he reread the final paragraph.

"We have a long way to travel before we get to what Dickens meant; and the passage is along a rambling English road, a twisting road such as Mr. Pickwick traveled. But this at least is part of what he meant: that comradeship and joy are not interludes in our travel; but that rather our travels are interludes in comradeship and joy, which through God shall endure for ever. The inn does not point to the road; the road points to the inn. And all roads point at last to an ultimate inn, where we shall meet Dickens and all his characters; and when we drink again it shall be from the great flagons in the tavern at the end of the world."

* * *

And then, being Woollcott, the man who came to dinner went on to imagine the scene as those in that far-off tavern gathered at the door to welcome the coming Barrie. There was Robert Burns, of course, and the great Sir Walter and that other Scott who wrote to Barrie; and R. L. Stevenson. The author of Peter Pan was one of themselves; but Dickens was among the throng too, and Chesterton and a host of others whose names many of us know well.

And at the back of the group, waiting with characteristic diffidence behind a pillar but upheld with pride at all the great folk gathered to greet her son, Woollcott could visualize Margaret Ogilvy, the real heroine of every story Barrie wrote and the woman who gave his resplendent youth to the world.

Alexander Woollcott was soon to join that company of whom he wrote so much and so well, although he was unaware of this when he conjured a scene whose reality he now knows at first hand. He died in June, 1943.

With the Classics

In Reading gaol by Reading town
There is a pit of shame,
And in it lies a wretched man
Eaten by teeth of flame.
In a burning winding sheet he lies,
And his grave has got no name.
And there, till Christ call forth the dead,
In silence let him lie;
No need to waste the foolish tear,
Or heave the windy sigh:
The man had killed the thing he loved,
And so he had to die.
And all men kill the thing they love,
By all let this be heard.
Some do it with a bitter look,
Some with a flattering word.
The coward does it with a kiss,
The brave man with a sword!

What a Police State Is Like

By RICHARD L. THOMAS, Daily Colonist Correspondent

BRITONS took Marshal Bulganin and Mr. Khrushchev to their hearts sufficiently to refer to them privately as Bulge and Krush. Oxford undergraduates enjoyed themselves displaying portraits of Stalin and chanting "Poor old Joe!" And the grossly overworked motor-cycle escort of the metropolitan police did more guard duty in 10 days than in the whole previous history of Scotland Yard. It was a paradox of fun, nonsense and sweet ridiculousness.

Time alone will tell whether any good has resulted. Protestations of love and friendship are fine but fulfillment is better, and that takes time. But one thing Bulge and Krush have managed to do is to emphasize their own precarious position. In my time I have been asked to step away from a shop doorway because the Queen was coming out—and she came out and I could have spoken to her and touched her. Last week, by accident, I was in the vicinity of Bulge and Krush and as they walked past I found myself in a solid mass of Russian and English security men. I could not have lifted an arm. Once in their cars I was a free man again.

It was neat and impressive and remarkably efficient, but it is not the sort of thing that we in England are used to. Nor are we used to having distinguished visitors whose routes are not announced from place to place or, should the route become known, to having the route changed at the last moment. Our distinguished visitors drove down side streets to avoid main roads and we had the remarkable spectacle of detectives crouched on public buildings, revolvers ready just in case something happened down below.

* * *

There is a lesson in all this somewhere. Obviously important people are liable to be a focus for fanatics and the mentally unbalanced. It happens to our Royal family—but the people are known, spotted and looked after. No British Royalty or statesman has to ride with a screen of police.

Everywhere the cavalcade went it went at speed; on one journey it touched 60 m.p.h. in Hyde Park. Time and time again the laws of England were broken with impunity and no one did anything. The speed limit in Hyde Park is 20 m.p.h. The Queen's car observes it.

Time and time again inoffensive John Citizens were pushed around and moved on for no other reason than that Bulge and Krush were somewhere in the vicinity. City clerks were stopped walking across London Bridge on their way to the station — just because Bulge and Krush were scheduled to pass underneath on their way to Greenwich by river. One little man who was more scared of missing his train and the wifely admonition asked a policeman why he could not cross the bridge.

"Big Brother," said the policeman. The crowd laughed. I hope his wife did. He looked so harassed. He was so plaintively insistent that it was all wrong that a couple of Russians should stop him catching his train.

"What law prevents me walking across the bridge?" he asked.

"Big Brother is watching you," retorted the policeman.

More laughter. More frustration. But Big Brother won. The little man had to wait.

* * *

There was plenty of good humor but it is pretty certain that never before have the police broken the laws of the land so flagrantly. We were ordered about, told not to stand there, to shift on from somewhere else. We were not allowed to park a car where it could not possibly cause an obstruction just because Bulge and Krush might pass it, and I suppose because we might have a bomb in the glove box.

Yet we had plenty of food for thought. No doubt some bright barrister could have challenged the police a hundred times, no doubt the law would have proved them wrong, but such was the importance of the visitors that the police obviously believed that the end justified the means. They were good humored, obviously fed up with the fastidiousness of their own precautions, but they were resolute—law or no law.

And no one knows how many guests were invited by Covent Garden for the gala—guests whose job was not to watch the ballet but the audience. Guests with guns and hawk eyes. It was a fantastic commentary on the love generated by the leaders of the "workers' republic."

Mr. Khrushchev, so we are told, was impressed by the unobtrusiveness of the security screen and amazed how few policemen we needed. The Russian secret police were, according to some accounts, greatly worried by the paucity of men.

We hope that they learned as much as we did. Britain is no longer under any illusion about what a police state is like. We know in a trivial sort of way. Life in Britain would be intolerable if the Queen or Sir Anthony Eden had to travel around like our Russian visitors. If the Russians really believe that our policemen were wonderful because there were so few of them we hope they will call again some time unofficially.

Then they will learn that the treatment for Bulge and Krush was so ostentatiously vulgar from British standards that it was nauseating. But at least it left us convinced that our way of life was better, brighter and safer—and we doubt if the Russian gentlemen were out to emphasize that.

Shaw and Phonetics

WORD comes from England that the British Museum is challenging the will of George Bernard Shaw who left a tidy sum for the promotion of phonetic spelling. The phonetic scheme, it appears, lacks backers, possibly because the people who should be interested are too busy, either teaching children how to spell or writing books entitled Why Johnny Can't Spell.

The chief reason why Johnny can't spell, of course, is that Johnny doesn't read. Most of his spare time is spent with television or comic books so that words come to him either as sound or as rudimentary shapes (awk, oops, boom, zowie, kapow, etc.).

The progressive educationists, going along with him in his world of imagery, are teaching him to recognize the shape of words, rather than their alphabetical arrangement, and it may be they are on the right track, even if Johnny never learns to spell. As sight and sound take over, with larger and larger imagery and louder voices the small exactitudes of spelling may fall into neglect and eventually disappear. Then, if Johnny needs to communicate in writing, he can spell by ear and eye.

It is a way of arriving at phonetic spelling, though not one that GBS, an exact man of letters, would be likely to approve.

Early in January, when it was below zero, a girl told her sweetheart she couldn't think of marrying him until he had saved at least $1,000. Later, with spring bursting out all over, she asked him how much he had saved.

He: "Oh, about $35."

She (blushing): "Well, I guess that's near enough."

One day, Picasso was asked if he knew of a miracle.

"Certainly," the modernistic painter answered. "Rubens was a miracle."

"How so?" the questioner wanted to know. "Do you really consider Rubens' masterpieces miraculous?"

"Not exactly," Picasso explained. "But Rubens made only 2,000 paintings, of which we have now 4,000 left."

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

EITHER the tea industry, in its advertising and public relations campaigns in the United States, has fallen flat on its tea-pot or else the restaurant industry in the United States is incredibly dumb. Because, with exceptions so rare as to be hardly worth including in the indictment, you still can not get a proper pot of tea in the United States.

Despite nation-wide TV demonstrations by Arthur Godfrey, and sundry newspaper and magazine advertising campaigns, unless you ask slow, clear and loud, for "a pot of tea made in the pot," you still get that most ridiculous of presentations, a cup and saucer, a pot of water that maybe was hot when it left the kitchen, and, lightly reposing on the saucer of the tea cup, a neat dry tea bag. You are then supposed to drop the tea bag in the lukewarm water yourself.

"This," as one head waitress in St. Louis explained to me authoritatively, "is to allow you to make the tea to the strength you like it."

Wowie! But in close to 100 per cent of my own experience in the United States, if you do ask for the tea to be made "in the pot," it is made with hot water, but not boiling water, a fact instantly revealed by the straw-like flavor of the brew. I doubt very much if the average restaurant kitchen in the business has boiling water on hand at all times. Without any doubt, they have hot water. And hot water may be of a wide range of hotness. I suppose if steam is coming off it, it is presumed to be hot. If it feels hot, it is hot. And into the teapot it goes.

On the few occasions on which I protested to the waitress or manager that the tea was not made with boiling water, the answer they gave showed up their complete misunderstanding of the art.

"The water was boiled!" they declare haughtily. It appears they are under the misapprehension that water has to be boiled, not boiling, in order to make tea. It is a question of grammar, of tense. I suggest the tea industry try again and spread on a few thousand billboards all across the United States, from Cape Cod to San Diego the feature of which would be the word "boilING" on it, the ING being in letters six feet nigh.

The campaign could be entitled "The Grammar of Tea." On the whole, however, maybe the best thing to do is remember the Boston Tea Party and bear in mind that Americans have a natural antipathy to tea, inspired in them from their earliest schooldays.

Better stick to coffee in the States. It they have to boil.

Not Our Anthem

At the school bands concert in Memorial Arena on April 26 the announcer, who is connected with a local radio station, called on the audience to rise and sing "our national anthem, 'O Canada' "!

I ask you, sir, how often must such people be told that the patriotic song "O Canada" is not an anthem, as anyone will understand by consulting a dictionary.

Maybe it was a slip of the tongue but to the writer it sounded one discordant note in a grand evening of harmonious and delightful music played by such a galaxy of young people.

Childish Stunt

I have lived in B.C. 50 years and on this island since 1913, over 30 years right here in Victoria. (Nootka island it should have been in the first place.)

I must be terribly dumb, when I can't recall ever hearing it was necessary for Nanaimo and Victoria, possibly Duncan, to "bury the hatchet."

I simply can't understand such child's play. It must have been serious, because they had one member of the party who was an undertaker to do the job.

It really amused me when I saw the famous city of Ladysmith not mentioned. Why? We have a city there which is historic. It was named Ladysmith after the Boer War when it was incorporated.

I just wish I had been mayor when that so-called hatchet was buried. I should have demanded that the famous city of Ladysmith would have been recognized at that so-called funeral, or I would have used that hatchet, and Vancouver island would have been minus two mayors.

TV Interference

There is a meeting of TV engineers in the city on May 7, sponsored by the financial backers of Victoria's new TV station. Presumably the public will be told that the new TV station will not interfere "very much" with Seattle's channel 5, or any other channel for us who have TV sets. We have invested hundreds of dollars in each set, and therefore our rights in this matter should be protected.

Besides, it is not just a question of interference with another TV station but rather interference with a network which carries some of the finest programs seen anywhere on television. It is unthinkable that this network or any other network now received in this area should be wiped off the television map of Victoria for all time.

Nor should we be asked to buy some expensive gadget to protect the interests of local television men who have a personal financial stake in this new station.

Yes, let us have progress; but not at the expense of the general public. We, too, have financial and other interests in this matter.

Borrowed Thrill

Why has dear old Victoria got to cling to our obsolete daylight saving? All the outlying agricultural districts voted against it in last year's plebiscite, and also the small towns.

Our terrifically overworked business men and women who work five to five and a half days a week, eight hours per diem, could surely get up at 5 a.m. PST if they are so keen on gardening, etc. One hour extra of daylight in the evening is very pleasant, but it is just encouraging a fiction of which we have a surplus nowadays. Shipping, railroads and so forth, anyone dependent on the standard sunshine and tides, have to adhere to standard time.

Why should we not become normal again instead of borrowing this old thrill from the last world war?

Beyond Human Power

Concerning capital punishment, may I submit that it is a problem beyond our power to solve. Instead of one crime, we make it two, and penalize ourselves with the added expense into the bargain. That is silly, and man has bedevilled himself with that lunacy throughout history.

If we have reference to the Scriptures, we will find that, exacting punishment for offences against us, we remain under condemnation for our own crimes.

Date of New Bingo Will Be Set Today

Victoria Kinsmen Club will decide this afternoon the date of a successor to the record-smashing bingo game which brought gross proceeds of close to $20,000 in Memorial Arena Monday.

Jack Phillion, Kinsmen bingo chairman, said yesterday the club will also meet tomorrow to decide disposition of the net profit, estimated at between $12,000 and $13,000.

SEVERAL APPLICATIONS

"We have had a number of applications from very good organizations," he said.

Number of players will be increased next time from 7,500 to a possible 7,750 or more, by rearrangement of seats.

Mr. Phillion said the club is considering "more fabulous prizes," such as two cars instead of one, and "more quick standard games."

CLUB THRILLED

He disclosed that the club was "so thrilled with the crowd" Monday that an extra refrigerator was obtained as a prize and a free game held to give it away.

Although similar "bingo for charity" games in other parts of B.C. do not give consolation prizes, the Victoria club handed out 100 of them, each $12 steak knife sets.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H.® Ask for individually-sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

No Licences—Dunton

Supersede CBC, Brief Urges

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters proposes to the royal commission on broadcasting that the federal government set up an independent board to take over the publicly-owned CBC's powers of regulating radio and TV.

The association, in a brief made public Tuesday night, "also urges that [illegible] be allowed to operate in any area. The government now reserves six major cities for CBC stations alone and allows just one private station to operate in other individual areas.

A supplementary brief of the CARTB, which represents 137 radio and 25 TV stations, said non-government stations should be permitted to form their own radio and TV networks, forbidden now under CBC policy.

The association's brief likely will be presented to the three-man royal commission today. Since public hearings opened Monday, the only witness has been A. D. Dunton, chairman of the CBC board of governors, who probably will complete his evidence around noon today.

HINGES ON FUNDS

Mr. Dunton has testified that the CBC likes the idea of privately-owned second television stations in CBC-served centres if the corporation can get enough funds to provide them with the amount of Canadian - produced programs it considers they should have.

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC is not asking for a licence fee on broadcast receivers, board chairman A. D. Dunton of the CBC told the royal commission on broadcasting Tuesday.

But he added that any scheme of financing its television operations should be related to the number of viewers.

Mr. Dunton, testifying since Monday's start of public commission hearings, stated then that the CBC could continue TV service on the present scale at a cost of $15 per household in addition to its advertising revenues.

Commission counsel John Coyne suggested Tuesday the CBC might look on this figure as a licence fee.

"We are not asking for a licence fee," Mr. Dunton said. "We do suggest that any financing scheme should have a logical relationship to the number of viewers."

Hospital Bed Mattress Lost

The mattress has not been found.

Finances Foil Fete Planners

With the Victoria Day holiday weekend only 17 days away, organizers of several events in the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association program are running into "frustration."

Finances are the reason, Magistrate A. I. Thomas, acting chairman, told an association meeting last night.

"We are nip and tuck on the borderline," he said. "We have to cut corners where we can."

Proposed [illegible] Orchestra concert May 20 cannot be held, said conductor Hans Gruber, "if there is no sponsor or backer," and unless a decision is made this week.

The association decided to retain a dance orchestra of young Victoria musicians and the Hometowners for the "Victoria Day Jamboree" at Memorial Arena.

Junior Chamber of Commerce said it was unable to provide a float for the May queen in the Victoria Day parade, but the problem was solved by asking that the city float be put at the disposal of the queen.

However, the association learned the May 20 pageant was "working out pretty well," and RCN representatives said an open-air drumhead service will be held May 20.

Three Clerics Conducting Rites for Murdered Girl

LANGLEY, B.C. (CP) — Funeral services for eight-year-old Carolyn Moore will be held here today with ministers from three Langley churches officiating.

The girl was found beaten to death last Saturday, some 40 hours after she disappeared while on her way from school to meet her mother at the Anglican church here. Gerald E. Eaton, 51-year-old ferry deckhand, has been charged with her murder.

The funeral in Langley United church will be conducted by the family pastor, Rev. J. C. Cinnamon, with Rev. T. E. Harris and Rev. T. G. T. Handy assisting.

Meanwhile, RCMP say a 16-year-old boy arrested during the investigation has been released and cleared of any connection with her death. Police said the boy's arrest resulted from the same "tip" that led to Eaton's arrest.

A woman told police her child, a friend of Carolyn's, was molested in a Langley theatre April 21.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

It's lacrosse time again and on the eve of the opening game in the Inter-City Lacrosse League, the two biggest question marks are the clubs which finished one-two last season. Both Nanaimo Timbermen, defending league champions, and Victoria Shamrocks, Canadian champions, have lost several stars and continued success in both cases will probably depend on players not yet on club lists.

This is particularly true of Timbermen, who won 25 of 32 games last season to finish with an eight-point margin over the Shamrocks. The Timbermen could either be favorites to repeat by the end of the week or they could look like a logical last-place club.

At the moment, the Nanaimo club has definitely lost Jim McNulty, who set a new league record last season by scoring 78 goals and passing for 32 others, and Bob Bremner, a speedy veteran who will be hard to replace.

There is still the chance that Timbermen will have to do without the services of Gogie Stewart although club officials maintain that the elusive forward will be back. And there will be fears about Harry Wipper until the new playing coach shows up and indicates he will be around for the season.

As for the Shamrocks, they will start the season without six of the players who played a big part in the Mann Cup victory. It will be quite a task to replace such stars as Jack Bionda, Arnie Ferguson, Bob Doble, Larry Booth, Nip O'Hearn and Whitey Severson, who has taken over from Red McMillan as coach.

On the basis of the losses listed above, Vancouver Pilseners have been conceded an excellent chance of taking league honors and there is the possibility that both Timbermen and Shamrocks may have trouble holding off the New Westminster Salmonbellies.

* * *

On the other hand it would be folly at the moment to think that the Island entries are likely to be battling Salmonbellies to see which two clubs will join Pilseners in the playdowns. Matters could change so rapidly that Pils would lose their role of favorites within the week.

Shamrocks had depth last season and will be able to floor a competitive club despite admittedly severe losses. They have added a good prospect in Bert Bertoria and there is every indication that one or more of their ex-junior stars will come through. The club as is may not be good enough to win but what would happen if Bremner is allowed to transfer, if Bionda or Doble, or both, should change their minds about staying in Ontario, and if Severson decided he was needed as a player? It could happen.

Timbermen, too, could suddenly blossom out as the team to beat. As constituted, they do not look strong enough to repeat and could even wind up last if the worst happens. But what would be their rating if Stewart turned out, if Wipper shows up and has a big season, and if they are allowed to transfer Bobby Allen and Ronnie Jay, two Ontario youngsters?

That would mean that the Timbermen will have added Wipper, Allen and Jay to make up for the loss of McNulty and Bremner. That would leave them about on a par with last season, when they were good enough to win the league title handily.

So, until Nanaimo and Victoria club rosters are set for the season, it would be foolish to hazard a guess about what may happen this season.

* * *

However, uncertainty about prospects at Nanaimo and Victoria hasn't helped the Inter-City Lacrosse League despite the interesting speculation that mainland clubs may take over. The fact remains that this is a crucial season for the ICLL, which may suffer no matter what happens in the island cities.

If Shamrocks and Timbermen are unable to get close to last season's strength, there may be some gain in Vancouver, where Pilseners would likely get extra fans if they stay out in front. The situation in New Westminster is not good and unlikely to change much unless Salmonbellies do unexpectedly well.

That would be all to the good but Victoria and Nanaimo have practically carried the league for the past two or three seasons and if both clubs should drop back, the loss would be greater than any gain on the mainland. On the other hand, if the two island clubs again prove to be too strong, interest will wane in Vancouver and become almost non-existent in New Westminster.

It's a touchy situation with the league down to four clubs and hurt by the absence of such "name" players as Bionda, McNulty and O'Hearn, but there is still the good chance for a close race which would fan interest.

Pilseners may look like the best at the moment but they're not so strong that any runaway should be conceded even if Shamrocks and Timbermen fail to cash in on their possibilities. Salmonbellies, a young team which often came close last season although winning only six games and tying two, could improve enough to be contenders in a more balanced league and Shamrocks are good enough right now to stay close. Nanaimo may be the big question mark but if Timbermen get Stewart and Wipper, they'll be no set-up. A lot of questions have yet to be answered but at least the ICLL has a chance for a good season.

Shamrock Rookies Set for Opener Tonight

It will be a big night for the four new members of the Victoria Shamrocks tonight at Memorial arena where they will make their Inter-City Lacrosse League debut with the Mann Cup champion Irish in the season opener against Vancouver Pilseners. Rocks went through a light shooting workout last night and are in top shape for tonight's battle at 8.30. Shamrock rookies are, left to right: Ed Longpre, Bert Bertoria, Ed Kowalyk and Art Green.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan).

Jake Names Veteran Lineup To Meet Irish Here Tonight

Jake Proctor, wily coach of the Vancouver Pilseners who will direct his team from the bench this season, has named an experienced lineup to oppose the Mann Cup champion Victoria Shamrocks in the Inter-City Lacrosse League opener at Memorial arena tonight.

Proctor will have only three rookies — Bill Chisholm, Bill Barbour and Ed Goss — in his lineup tonight but both Chisholm and Barbour have several Inter-City League games under their belts. Barbour, who was slated to join the Irish but later changed his mind, and Goss were junior Indian stars last season while Chisholm played for Vancouver Rockies.

JOSEPH IN GOAL

Veteran Stan Joseph, always a Shamrock nemesis, will be between the pipes and Proctor has Ron Delmonico, starry Vancouver goalie last season, as netminding insurance. Defence combinations will be Jack Byford and Skip McKay, and Alf Brenner and Gordie Nickle.

Proctor's top line will be Larry Crema, Bob Marsh and Bob Parry while another unit will be Barbour, Mario Crema and Jim Swanson. Ted Hunt, Chisholm and Denny Huddleston will form the third unit with Goss listed as a utility player.

Proctor has a number of players who he will work into the lineup before he cuts his roster to 18 players and two goalies in June. Elmer Buchanan was injured during a workout last week but the sharp-shooting forward will get into action soon.

Proctor expects Harry Buchanan, Alex McKay, Fred Aspin and Joe Durante to turn out with the club at a later date and has several good juniors including Al Jarvis and Ron Phillips eager to gain a starting berth.

Meanwhile, the Shamrocks went through a light shooting drill last night in preparation for their opener. The Irish travel to New Westminster Thursday night, then rest until next Wednesday when they host the Salmonbellies.

Shamrock officials announced last night that the 10 B.C. Products Fair beauty queen contestants will be guests at tonight's game, which starts at 8.30.

Yanks Regain Lead As Orioles Help; Braves Also Move

First inter-sectional games were played in the major leagues yesterday and results brought new leaders in both the American and National Leagues.

Getting a third straight route-going performance from Whitey Ford, the New York Yankees grabbed the top spot in the American League by thumping Detroit Tigers, 9-2. Mickey Mantle hit his fifth home run and Hank Bauer his third to back up Ford's steady seven-hit pitching job.

TOUGH LOSS

Chicago White Sox were dropped out of the lead when they took a 3-2 setback in an 11-inning game at Baltimore. A wild throw by relief pitcher Dixie Howell on a sacrifice bunt gave Orioles their winning run.

Milwaukee Braves, back in action after being rained out for a week, moved ahead in the National League by edging Philadelphia Phils, 6-4, while the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers were both beaten.

The three clubs are tied in games won and lost but the Braves lead on percentage with the Cards second and the Dodgers third.

Pittsburgh's scrappy Pirates knocked the Cards down with a 4-2 victory, scoring once in the eighth inning and twice in the ninth to defeat Vinegar Bend Mizell, the St. Louis ace. Curt Roberts was the Pirate hero, bashing a two-run double in the ninth to break a tie after tripling and scoring the eighth-inning run.

STILL A JINX

Johnny Klippstein, who beat the Dodgers four times in five tries last season, stopped the world champions with a neat six-hitter as Cincinnati Redlegs won their fifth straight, 3-1.

In the other National League game, Willie Mays snapped out of a slump to lead the Giants to a 2-1 win over Chicago Cubs. Mays tripled twice as he scored one run and drove in the other to give Jim Hearn the win over Warren Hacker in a keen mound battle.

It was close in the other two American League games, too. Kansas City edged Boston Red Sox, 3-2, with a squeeze bunt by Joe Demaestri scoring Jim Finigan with the winning run in the eighth inning.

CLUB TO WATCH

And Cleveland Indians continued to get gilt-edged pitching as Early Wynn defeated Washington Senators, 3-2, to score his third win without defeat. The winning run came in the ninth on Al Smith's double and a sacrifice fly by Chico Carrasquel. Smith also homered and singled for a big day at the plate.

Beliveau Adds to Earnings As Winner of Hart Trophy

Jean Beliveau, brilliant centre for the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens, Tuesday was named winner of the National Hockey League's most valuable player award, the Hart Trophy.

Including the $1,000 that goes with the award, big Jean has run his extra-salary earnings to an estimated $8,000, including $3,000 for being a member of a team that won the league championship and the Stanley Cup; $1,000 for the scoring championship and another $1,000 for being named first all-star centre.

His regular salary has never been made public, but the total figure for the five-year contract he signed in 1953 has been estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000.

In winning the Hart Trophy, Beliveau received 94 of a possible 180 points. Tod Sloan, high-scoring Toronto Maple Leaf centre, was second with 86 points, and Lorne "Gump" Worsley, New York Ranger goalie, was third with 72 points.

Warriors Nip Royals; One Game from Title

By RICHARD ANCO

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Warriors moved to within one game of capturing the Edinburgh Trophy Tuesday night with a hard-won 4-3 victory over Montreal Royals in the fifth game of the best-of-nine series. They now hold a comfortable 4-1 margin in games.

Royals, who showed surprising stamina through the wide - open battle, came from behind a 3-0 deficit in the third period to score twice before each team exchanged goals 20 seconds apart in the last minute of play.

The sixth game is scheduled here Thursday. A crowd of 9,522 saw the game and set a western Canada hockey attendance record for one season of 254,067.

MOSIENKO SCORES WINNER

Veteran Bill Mosienko was the hero driving home the winning goal at 19:08 of the final frame on a 40-foot shot. But Montreal pressed to the end and Andre Corriveau kept it close with a neat counter with 32 seconds remaining in the game.

Winnipeg jumped to a two-goal lead in the second period after a scoreless opening period. They connected again early in the fast third period before the Quebec League champions came to life.

Hugh Barlow, Skippy Burchell and Mike Nykoluk were the other Warrior scorers. For Royals, it was Denis Boucher, Ray Laplante and Corriveau.

Montreal—Goal, McNeil; defence, R. Rousseau, Ingram, Deslauriers; Cline, McPherson; forwards, Corriveau, Thorndycraft, Goyette, Boucher, G. Rousseau, Burnett, Denis, Bradley, Laplante.

Referee, Eddie Powers; linesmen, Dick Davis, Andy Gurba.

Rainiers Extend Lead: Mounties Now Sixth

Seattle's pitcher-rich Rainiers won their sixth straight game last night to open up a game and-a-half lead in the Coast Baseball League.

Held to four hits by Gene Bearden and Res Jones, the Rainiers profited from seven bases on balls to edge out Sacramento Solons, 4-3. Don Fracchia, one-time WIL infielder, was the winning pitcher.

Los Angeles' second place Angels were trimmed, 7-1, as Portland Beavers won their first home game after four straight defeats.

At Vancouver, a crowd of 1,258 saw the Mounties move up to the sixth place by bouncing the San Diego Padres, 7-2, behind steady pitching by Charlie Locke. And there were only 839 fans on hand at Hollywood as the luckless stars took a setback when San Francisco seals unloaded for four runs in the 10th inning.

English Colts Disappoint . . .

. . . For Mile Classic Today

Foreign Entries Dominate 'Gloomy Guineas' Betting

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (AP)—The first classic race of the 1956 season will be run today over a straight mile at Newmarket, and the faint-hearted are calling it the "Gloomy Guineas."

In a spirit of defeatism which adds an extra chill to this frigid spring, the horse set has just about given up hope of keeping the Two Thousand Guineas in England this year. Six French horses and two from Ireland dominate the betting on the classic, first run in 1809.

"Ours are a bad lot," sums up expert opinion on the English entries.

The favorite is Philius II, a powerful, headstrong colt owned by French textile millionaire Marcel Boussac, whose 107-strong string may be the largest racing stable in the world.

Philius won his only start this year with some ease but his reputation is based on his second last year to his stablemate Apollonia, a phenomenal filly touted as the fastest thoroughbred in Europe.

Second choice is the Irish-trained Milesian, owned by Mrs. Anne O'Ferrall, a recent winner in Ireland over seven furlongs.

One by one, the English colts have disappointed. Rustam was the winterbook favorite for the Guineas, but in his only race this season failed to make a dent on the Queen's High Veldt, which isn't in the Guineas. Rustam is owned by Lady Wyfold and trained by Englishman Geoffrey Brooke, who once licked stamps as a humble employee in a Canadian bank.

Rustam may share favoritism among the English colts with Drum Beat a fair trial colt which looks like a worldbeater at six furlongs but is expected to run out of gas in the race up the slightly-rising last 300 yards. Drum Beat is owned by J. S. (Lucky Jack) Gerber, a South African merchant.

Longshots include First Light, owned by Sir Winston Churchill and Chatelsey, a scrappy, light-framed colt by Pardal out of the Epinard mare Chantage, which has a highly consistent record but is regarded as too plain-looking to win a classic.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

THIS MAY BE KERR'S YEAR. So far as Vancouver Island is concerned this could quite easily be Laurie Kerr's year. He has made an excellent start by winning the Island Open, and he will certainly be one of the favorites for the City amateur which he won for the first time last year.

[illegible] years of age, lost two years of competitive golf in winning back his amateur status after being an admitted professional, but there has never been any doubt about his quality as a fully equipped golfer with a near fool-proof swing.

Kerr indeed might extend his sovereignty further afield and into the Willingdon Cup orbit. His next test will be to meet the mainland open champion, and then there will be the B.C. amateur to be played this year at Gorge Vale where last Sunday Kerr won his Open title with a 3-and-2 win over clubmate Vince Clarkson.

While Kerr deserved his title, Clarkson enhanced his reputation in this final with a fine uphill battle. Although he was six down early in the first round, Clarkson never wavered and he actually reduced the leeway to one hole before Kerr recovered his poise to close the match by taking the 33rd and 34th holes.

EXECUTIVE CHANGES AT VICTORIA. The Victoria golf club named a new slate of officers for the forthcoming year at a highly successful annual meeting Monday evening.

W. H. M. Haldane, a long-standing member and a former captain of the club was elected president in succession to the late Judge Shandley.

Reg R. Wilde took over the vice-president's job from Gordon Harris, who is retiring after five years of active service, while the new captain is Dr. George Bigelow, who takes the place of Colin Hart.

The new members elected to the committee were Herbert Morris, Gordon K. Verley and Harry Young.

Retiring vice-president Harris presented an excellent report which showed a surplus on the year of $3,654 after setting aside $6,000 for alterations and improvements to the links. A profit on the dining room was made for the first time in many years and the beverage account profit increased by nearly 400 per cent.

* * *

BANFF VISIT POPULAR. Island golfers accustomed to the heavy ozone-laden air of the Pacific coast are being given a special opportunity to hit the ball a mile on the mile-high light atmosphere of the Banff golf course.

The Canadian Pacific Railway is organizing a special week for golfers at the Banff Springs hotel, May 28 - June 2. Low rates include, room, meals, golf, indoor and outdoor swimming. Anglers may also try their luck in the nearby ice-cold mountain lakes.

Harry Newton of the CPR here is ready to make reservations, and he tells me that already quite a number of Victoria golfers have made reservations. The party will leave Victoria May 27.

* * *

SPORTY HOLE ENDANGERED. The seventh hole at Victoria Golf Club, one of the most sporting long one-shotters in the country, is being threatened by the cruel sea.

The bank down to the beach in front of the green is gradually being eroded away, and experts say that unless something is done quickly, the next few big storms may spoil the hole completely.

The greens committee this week were given the authority of the members to proceed with protective measures. Club member Russ Potter suggested that neighboring beach rock could be blasted and used to form a barrier between the sea and the exposed bank.

VANCOUVER ISLAND OMITTED. Apparently C. E. Robinson, I ke his predecessor, Bill Hamilton, secretary of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, does not regard Victoria as being on his beat.

The new secretary is to be in Vancouver Friday in connection with National Golf Day and he is having a reception at the Shaughnessy club.

This is nothing more than a slight on the capital city for is not our own Dr. George Bigelow president this year of the B.C. association. Surely, out of curtesy to him, Mr. Robinson should have come to Victoria.

When I took the matter up with Mr. Hamilton a year ago he said he would include Victoria in his next trip, but he can't have passed on the promise to his replacement.

* * *

NEW SECRETARY APPOINTED. The Royal Colwood club has chosen Tom Nisbet as its new secretary in succession to Dereg Rhys-Jones. He is taking up his duties immediately.

Tom was formerly secretary of the Victoria Golf club.

SCHOOLBOY LEADS UPLANDS GOLFERS. Dale Dalziel, the 17-year-old Oak Bay high school student who plays off a handicap of eight, leads a big field at the end of the first round of the Uplands Cup. Dale shot 73 — best gross of the day — for a net 65 Sunday, but he has the hot breath of a hungry pack blowing on his neck.

Just one stroke behind are Alex Baird (13) and Frank Partington (21). The final round will be played this Sunday.

Husky Don Bragg Seeks Stronger Pole In Assault on World's Outdoor Mark

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Don Bragg, the Villanova junior tagged by all the experts as the best bet to smash the 16-foot barrier in the pole vault, was worried about his weight today as he eyed an Olympic championship "and at least a world record."

Black-haired Don's blue eyes were serious as he pondered his problems, now that he is the second highest vaulter in history during the past winter, Bragg moved ahead of the Rev. Bob Richards, whose all-time best is 15 feet, five inches, by tacking a quarter-inch on Richards' best effort ever.

Right now, though, he's having trouble—getting a pole that will support his weight. They either are too heavy or, if light, have too much whip.

"It's going to require the right combination," said Bragg, a junior in business administration at Villanova. "My 188 poiinds is quite a problem, because Warmerdam and Richards both weighed only about 165. That extra 20 pounds or more makes a big difference."

MAY REACH 16 FEET

With the right equipment, both Warmerdam and Richards agree Bragg is a cinch to go 16 feet. He has everything else and where they both attained their peaks at about 25 years of age, "Tarzan" now is only 20 years old.

Bragg acquired that nickname as a youngster when he fitted the trees around his home in Pennsgrove, N.J., with ropes and made like an ape man.

"Shucks, no, I don't do that any more," he grins, "but it sure did develop my arms and shoulders."

So well that when he was in high school he vaulted 13 feet, nine inches, and while lacking Richards' consistency, holds the second-best individual mark of all time.

Along with Richards, Don Cooper, Jerry Welbourne and Bob Gutowski, he gives the United States a potent vaulting crew. But if Bragg ever gets fitted with the right pole, he threatens to [illegible]

Bragg is the [illegible] the seven pole vaulters who have surpassed 15 feet. It poses a problem.

Don simply can't get a pole which will support his avoirdupois until he gets it up into the vaulting stratosphere.

NEEDS RIGHT POLE

"If I get the right pole, and I've been doing a lot of experimenting, then I feel fairly confident that some day I'll have a chance at 16 feet," he said. "But right now I'm more interested in setting a new world record."

Which means that Bragg, a strapping six-footer with bull-like shoulders, narrow hips and long legs, isn't concentrating at the moment on the 16-foot barrier—one of the mental blocks in sports.

His mark at the moment is Cornelius Warmerdam's outdoor record of 15 feet, seven and three-quarter inches. The 16-footer, quite obviously is going to have to take care of itself along with such other sporting roadblocks as Babe Ruth's record 60 home runs, .400 hitting, 30-game winners and other such barriers which loom tall in the sporting mind.

BIDDING QUIZ

With some hands, the question is not whether to open the bidding but what to bid. When you have two biddable suits, the general rule is to bid the longer first, but sometimes you must suspend this dictum in order to leave yourself a comfortable rebid if partner makes what might otherwise be an uncomfortable response.

You deal with both sides vulnerable. What do you bid with each of the following hands?

(a) ♠ A K Q 2 ♡ 5 4 3 ◇ 5 ♣ K Q 10 4 2

(b) ♠ K J 10 4 ♡ A K Q 4 2 ◇ 5 ♣ 5 4 3

(c) ♠ A K Q 2 ♡ K J 10 4 2 ◇ 5 4 3 ♣ 5

(d) ♠ 5 4 3 ♡ A K Q 2 ◇ 5 ♣ K Q 10 4 2

(e) ♠ 5 4 3 ♡ K Q 10 4 2 ◇ 2 ♣ A K Q 2

(f) ♠ K Q J 2 ♡ 5 4 3 ◇ A K 10 4 2 ♣ 5

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

(a) One club. The natural bid presents no problems because you can bid one spade over either a diamond or heart response from partner.

(b) One spade. To bid the longer suit first means that you will be unable to show the spades later without reversing—a procedure which would convey to partner the idea that your hand is stronger than the values you actually hold.

(c) One spade. The hand is no stronger than example (b).

(d) One heart. Although it is usually preferable to bid first the suit under the singleton, and in this hand it happens to be your longer suit, you should not prepare only for a response of one diamond when, if partner responds one spade to an opening club bid, you may have to suppress the heart suit in order to avoid reversing. It is better to fib, if necessary, by rebidding two hearts if partner responds two diamonds.

(e) One heart. All of the reasons that apply to example (d) plus the fact that in this case it is also the natural bid.

(f) One spade. If partner responds two clubs to a one-diamond opening, you can bid two diamonds over two clubs; if partner responds two hearts you can afford to show the diamonds at the three level for you have a good supporting hand for hearts, too.

Expense, Globe Shortage Threaten Cluster Lights

Victoria's cluster lights may not have very long to shine.

In a debate on the city budget yesterday, council was told that new globes for them were unavailable on this continent, and that there was even doubt that they could be obtained in Europe.

Vancouver threw out its cluster lights many years ago, Electrical Engineer Kenneth Reid said, and Waterloo gave them up last year.

"I think we should eliminate the major portion of them," said Ald. Donald Smith, referring to the cost of keeping them going as "alarming."

But Mr. Reid suggested that council let the subject ride, in view of underground wiring to be done downtown in the next four years.

"Maybe we will be able to salvage globes downtown and use them farther out for some years," he said.

* * *

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow inquired if it wouldn't be cheaper to have men working at night than to turn on street lights in the daytime to check circuits.

Mr. Reid said circuits were only turned on for a few minutes at a time, and the cost was only 84 cents an hour for a circuit, less than half the hourly rate of a workman.

* * *

The railway crossing on Esquimalt road will be smoothed out with concrete at a cost of $1,800, but over the objections of Ald. Edgelow, who said he had driven across it and he didn't think it was that bad a bump.

Price Hike Causes Riots

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP)—A boost of seven cents in the price of movie tickets set off widespread rioting in this East African city Sunday night. Police used clubs in a clash with 1,000 persons who attacked the movie manager and smashed plate glass windows.

AUSTRALIAN ASBESTOS —

Australia exported 8,000 tons of asbestos to world markets in 1955, worth $1,800,000.

ALD. ARTHUR DOWELL
. . . would fight

Council Trims, Pares Quarter Mill Lopped

City council reduced the 1956 provisional budget by $19,000 or a quarter of a mill yesterday.

But when it adjourned until today, it was heading into a section of public works estimates where Ald. Arthur Dowell, public works chairman, said he would fight to have $31,000 added.

The day's budget consideration resulted in requests for two studies: one, by the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee, of possible amalgamation of the police forces of the metropolitan area; the other, by a council committee, of advantages or disadvantages of letting a contractor handle the city's street lighting.

As council began its study of public works estimates, Ald. Dowell pleaded that aldermen be "a little more realistic and a little more practical than they have been in the past."

IN THE PAST

In the past, he said, "the axe has been wielded ruthlessly" on public works estimates. Every other department had shown decided increases in expenditure over the past four or five years ranging from seven to 40 per cent, while public works expenditures had decreased 38 per cent.

If aldermen cut public works estimates without thinking, he said, they were doing a great injustice to the city.

City Engineer James Garnett told council that since 1950 labor costs had increased 35 per cent, material costs "likewise."

If the budget didn't go up in conformity with labor and material costs, he said, the city couldn't maintain the public works it had.

Council proceeded to cut $2,000 from public works estimates, but left until today the estimate for permanent street maintenance, part of the city of depreciation — replacement for city streets.

It was from this item that $31,000 was cut in committee, and Ald. Dowell and Ald. M. H. Mooney served notice that they will seek to have the sum restored.

The $2,000 was cut from the street signs and signals maintenance item.

TRIED IN VAIN

Alyd. Mrs. Lily Wilson tried hard, but in vain, to have money added to the juvenile court estimates for the city's share of the cost of having a juvenile probation officer.

Mayor Scurrah said the question "needn't be debated too much, because it won't come up for several months."

Last year's Campbell River "brown out" led to council cutting $1,500 for power supply supply from street lighting estimates.

A few minutes later council made another cut in estimated power costs by rejecting proposed installation of new mercury units on Douglas between Humboldt and Herald and cutting a multiple-lighting installation program for Bay between Fernwood and Richmond in half.

Council also trimmed out a $1,200 [illegible] and cut $3,150 for four mobile radio sets in half.

City Police Budget Slashed by $10,000

The $486,135 provisional budget of the city police department was cut $10,000 by city council yesterday, but only after prolonged battle.

The amended total sets police costs this year $18,854 above last year's actual expenditures, but only $7,563 above last year's final estimates.

An offshoot of the police budget debate was that council referred to the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee the question of amalgamating the four Greater Victoria police forces.

First real fighting over the estimates came when salaries of the policemen were considered. The estimate of $321,534, compared with last year's actual $300,035, included five new constables, Mayor Percy Scurrah confirmed.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow asked how Victoria's police force compared with other cities' on a per capita basis, and Police Commissioner W. J. Hamilton replied that if the force were providing service for just the 50,000 people of the city, it would compare favorably with others. But actually, he said, it was providing service for a much larger population.

FORCE DISPOSITION

Chief Blackstock went into detail on the disposition of the force after Ald. Macmillan said many ordinary citizens thought there were too many policemen at work in the daytime and not enough at night. The chief said it was "darn lucky" if there were two or three men on the street in the day shifts.

Throughout debate, Aldermen Austin Curtis and W. F. Pinfold and Mayor Scurrah contended that more policemen were needed. The mayor mentioned one respect in which I have some reservations" — the 638 days of sick leave taken by the 91-man police force last year. He said the firemen took only about a fifth as much, but that the chief explained his men were exposed to worse working conditions.

Ald. Smith eventually moved that $16,400—the cost of five new constables and a new sergeant detective — be cut from the whole budget. Aldermen Macmillan, Edgelow and M. H. Mooney voted with him, but the mayor and Aldermen Mrs. Lily Wilson, Curtis, Arthur Dowell and Pinfold defeated the motion.

Council voted unanimously, however, in favor of referring the question of a united metropolitan police force to the intermunicipal committee.

Ald. Smith did persuade council to cut out $3,700 for the new sergeant detective, Aldermen Pinfold, Curtis and Mrs. Wilson opposing the reduction and the aldermen whittled another $2,000 from the estimates before they reached the end of the budget.

Then Ald. Macmillan, predicting an increase in police costs next year of three-quarters of a mill, moved that another $10,000 be taken from the total. Only he and Ald. Smith voted for this motion, but the whole council with the exception of Ald. Curtis assented to Ald. Dowell's motion that $4,300 be removed from the total, to make the whole reduction $10,000.

Court Martial

SGT. MATTHEW McKEON

Marine NCO Drunk

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Marine Corps ordered a sweeping reorganization of boot camp training methods Tuesday after disclosing that a sergeant who led his men on a Parris island death march was "under the influence" of vodka.

A court martial was recommended for Staff Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon, who forced 74 recruits into a disciplinary night march through treacherous swamps at the South Carolina camp April 8. Six of them drowned.

PERSONAL TOUCH

Gen. Randolph McC. Pate, Marine Corps commandant, also announced that he personally will supervise a reorganization of training methods at Parris Island and San Diego, Calif. He said hazing and "un-American" types of punishment will be "absolutely eliminated."

Pate disclosed the findings of a marine court of inquiry to the House armed services committee.

He said the military court recommended that McKeon, a 31-year-old drill instructor from Worcester, Mass., be tried on charges of manslaughter, cruelty to recruits, disobeying orders, and bringing discredit on the armed services.

Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas must approve the recommendation.

COMMANDER RELIEVED

Pate also said that Maj.-Gen. J. C. Burger will be relieved as commander at Parris Island.

The court of inquiry also recommended "appropriate disciplinary action" against two other non-commissioned officers, who allegedly joined McKeon in drinking most of a bottle of vodka before the death march.

Jennings Rites To Be Held On Thursday

Funeral services for William Jennings, 84, florist and nurseryman in Victoria for 44 years, who died Monday in hospital, will be held at 3 p.m. tomorrow at Metropolitan United church. Burial will follow at St. Luke's churchyard.

Mr. Jennings was born in England. He lived at 3920 Shelbourne street. He was a pioneer elder of Metropolitan United church and a member of the church choir.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Percy Boorman, and two sons, Kenneth Jennings and Arthur Knapp, all of Victoria; eight grandchildren, three great grandsons, a sister Mrs. Frances Parks, of Mitchell, S.D.; three brothers, Frank of Victoria, and Samuel and John Henry, in England.

McCall Bros. are in charge of funeral arrangements.

Mickey's Vegetable Soup

Rib roast leftovers? Use them this hearty way: simmer bones (the more meat on them the better) in water for 2 hours—adding pepper, celery salt, any seasonings desired. Remove bones, dice meat, skim fat (a paper towel blots it off the surface neatly). Add vegetables and liquid from 1 can each Libby's Mixed Vegetables, Libby's Lima Beans and Tomatoes. Simmer to blend thoroughly. Delicious!

Easy Pickled Beets

Cover Libby's Beets (Whole, Sliced or Diced) with this mixture: 5 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon ground cloves, ½ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper. Let stand in refrigerator overnight! Easy? Yes! And so good!

"5 "Easy-do" ideas FROM Libby's

Spaghetti with Kebobs

Top a casserole of Libby's Spaghetti with Kebobs made simply by spearing Libby's Sweet Pickles and Vienna Sausages (lengthwise) alternately on skewers. Bake till bubbly. Serve with Libby's Catchup.

Beans-Franks Feast

Let frankfurters stand in boiling water 8 minutes. Slit—not quite through—lengthwise. Fill with Pickle Relish and Libby's Catchup. Arrange in casserole with Libby's Deep-Browned Beans, in alternate layers. Bake at 400° for 40 minutes.

Hamburgers Deluxe

During last few minutes of broiling, spread hamburgers with Libby's Catchup and top with Pickle Relish. Easy—and good!

Paradise Pie

Luscious! And this easy: cut marshmallows in fourths, mix with sweetened whipped cream—heap in baked pie shell. Top with Libby's Hawaiian Pineapple Slices; garnish with toasted almonds, maraschino cherries and mint. You'll see! Libby's is the freshest-tasting Pineapple ever!

Before-Dinner Treat

Serve chilled Libby's Tomato Juice with one of these 2 "snappy": mashed blue or cream cheese between walnut halves, or squares of cheddar cheese on a toothpick. N.B.—Be sure to get Libby's Tomato Juice: it's made from more tomatoes for more flavor, and guaranteed the best you've ever tasted, or DOUBLE your money back!

Coppers Lose As Market Turns Softer

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market suffered a sharp though [illegible] while a decline on Wall Street. Industrial losses were widespread but mostly within a point and a handful of issues managed moderate gains. Mines particularly the coppers encountered the heaviest weather with losses up to $2 in senior and up to 15 cents in the medium-priced group.

Lack of pressure in the retreat was evident in the day's sales, the lowest in more than five weeks at 3,367,000 shares. Brokers said the low volume was a bullish factor with traders reluctant to part with stocks at the lower prices.

Leading losers included Chevalier off $2 at a year's low of $68, Industrial Acceptance down $2.50 at a low of $41 and Ford Motor and Asbestos with losses of $1 $1.50. Although Steels, Imperial Oil and Trans Mountain traded actively for fractional losses.

Valleyfield moved upward in a late rally to post a $2 advance at a new high of $123.50 and continue its winning run.

Aluminium marked up a $2 loss at $37.50 to lead the mines down. Campbell Chibougamau slipped $1.

Among the few winners Melville Quebec Copper and Modern Quebec made modest gains.

Selected western oils advanced led by Consolidated West Pete up 5 cents. Canadian Southern added 11 cents. Metropolitan Petroleum dipped $1. Central Leduc, Pacific Petroleums and Pete were off about 10 cents.

Aluminium Advances

MONTREAL (CP) — The losses ranged to three points as industrial issues post lower levels at the close of moderate trading on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges Tuesday.

Aluminium was outstanding in a weak base metal group. The issue which climbed 1½ points Tuesday jumped two points in late afternoon trading after fluctuating through a point range for most of the session. Steels led others in the action to lower ground with a three-point drop.

Steel dropped two points and Algoma, Dominion Foundry and Consolidated and Acadia lost major fractions to lead the retreat on the papers. Refining was removed to a 1-point range.

Utilities also were mixed and heavyweights easier.

Lower-priced metals showed the widest losses in a softer mines section. New Rouyn dropped 10 cents and Bouscadillac and Quebec Chib 20 cents each. Campbell Chibougamau led the retreat in the golds with a 1½-point loss. Western oils were irregularly easier.

Motors Move Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — Softness in motors and most other sectors of the list added up to a major setback in the stock market Tuesday.

General Motors and Chrysler reported A[illegible] ... per cent ... closed off ¼ at 47¾ and Ford was down 1¾ at 57½. Chrysler lost 1¾ at 68.

Also lower were steels, rails, [illegible] leading coppers, chemicals, electronic equipments, oils, [illegible] most aircraft, some airlines and most of textiles and rubbers.

Considerable losses were mostly off on the New York exchange. Aluminium Ltd added ¾ [illegible] Seagram and Hudson Bay Mining lost ¾, Canadian Pacific International Nickel and Hiram Walker fell ¾ and Granby Mining ¾.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Trade followed dull lines on the Winnipeg grain exchange. Only reports of overseas business involved barley and flax.

Parcel lots sales of barley were reported to the United Kingdom and small quantities of flax went to the continent. Interest shipping demand appeared in oats but the prices moved narrowly as they did on barley.

NEW Hair Waving Discovery

comb PERMANENT waves into your hair

Simply comb this amazing new cream through your hair for beautiful permanent waves.

Yet . . . that's all you have to do with wonderful Headspin—then wind in curlers and rinse. Headspin suits every type of hair — coarse, medium or fine.

One tube of HEADSPIN will perm a full head — half head — the ends, or just a little for a wave here and there and keep the rest of the cream for another time.

Available at all cosmetic counters

COMB WIND RINSE

THERE'S NOTHING SO FAST—SO EASY

NO TIMING – When you have wound up your hair — there's no waiting – just rinse it out immediately.
NO DABBING – Just think – no dabbing of each curl as you wind it up.
NO LOTIONS – No neutralizing, no bother. Just one tube of cream for the whole head.

TV Talk

By ROY FARRELL

One of the most significant television developments in 30 years was the demonstration of the radically new magnetic tape TV recording system in Chicago last week.

It will affect the viewing of every TV fan within 12 months.

The new system records pictures and sound on tape as simply as a tape recorder makes home recordings. What is more, the TV pictures can be played back at once, complete with accompanying sound.

Until now TV recordings have been made on motion picture film and these must be processed and edited before the program can be aired. It is a complicated and delicate procedure.

Not so with the new tape system of TV recording, however; the equipment is portable and can even be used for on-the-spot newscasts. The reproduced pictures have all the quality of the originals too.

Bugan Jones president of KVOS Inc. and engineer Ernie Harper saw the demonstration and were very impressed.

Officials from KING-TV were on hand too. They were so interested that they immediately placed an order for one of the new recorders. The KING-TV equipment will be the fourth to roll off the assembly line and will be in use at the Seattle station about 12 months hence.

It will make KING's programming even better than it is today.

* * *

Music and folklore of Israel will be heard from Montreal on channel 2 at 4.45 this afternoon.

The Mickey Mouse Club is seen at its new time of 6 o'clock on channel 5 daily.

A non-title fight on channel 5 matches Wallace Bud Smith and Joe Brown lightweights at 7.

Battles between white men and Indians mark the movie "Broken Arrow" on channels 11 and 12 at 7.

A humorous western, "The Brush Roper," is the Screen Directors Playhouse offering on channel 4 at 8.

"I Search for Adventure" is seen at its new time of 8.30 p.m. Wednesdays, on channel 5.

The famous picture "Water Birds" is included on tonight's Disneyland at its new time, 9 p.m. tonight.

"A Night To Remember," famous TV story of the Titanic sinking, is repeated on channel 4 at 9.

Vanessa Brown stars on channel 11 in "The Story of Louise Williams," at 9.

A long-delayed honeymoon promises an estranged couple in "The Tin Bridge" on channels 11 and 12 at 10 o'clock.

The concluding act of "The Pirate," starring Judy Garland and Gene Kelly, is seen on channel 5 at 10.30.

A woman suddenly finds herself with two husbands in "Cage of Gold," channel 12 movie at 10.30.

News of B.C. and Victoria is seen every night on channel 2's 11 o'clock newscast.

Steve Allen has his hour-long "Tonight" show on channel 4 at 11.30.

Channel 2 has a late show at 11.30 but the title is, as usual, unannounced.

"Will you take a message to Ralph Kramden?"

—WEDNESDAY MAY 2

Today's quotation: "Men are the cause of women not loving one another."—La Bruyere

Wednesday for everyone. Co-operation helps in the morning. Seek necessary advice and aid of others. Later there is a tendency to irritability, poor judgment and impracticality that should be guarded against.

Look for Your Birthdate and Birthsign Below.

March 21 to April 19 (Aries)—Crystalize plans, see people in the morning. Later: don't be fooled by glamour.

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus)—Attend to budgets, business, travels in the morning. Later: be wary regarding credit, prestige.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—Gain co-operation or advice of elders in the morning. Later: review business routine.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer)—Morning: attend to necessities, money matters, service. Later: conserve monies, assets.

July 23 to Aug 22 (Leo)—Morning: place dealings with others on a practical basis, proceed tactfully. Later: be cooperative.

Aug 23 to Sept 22 (Virgo)—Morning: organize work efforts for greater efficiency, simplify diet, details. Later: make progress.

Sept 23 to Oct 22 (Libra)—Morning: promote pet projects, talents. Later: blend ideas with experience, make style of basis.

Oct 23 to Nov 21 (Scorpio)—Morning: Favors attention to domestic, office property matters. Later: avoid confusion.

Nov 22 to Dec 21 (Sagittarius)—Adopt a mature view, make persons; gains in the morning. Later: be steady, tenable.

Dec 22 to Jan 19 (Capricorn)—Effect savings, solve problems in the morning. Later: limit spending, count change.

Jan 20 to Feb 18 (Aquarius)—Promote dealings with elders in the morning. Later: skip involvements, be impersonal.

Feb 19 to March 20 (Pisces)—Advance ambitions, complete things in the morning. Later: avoid complications, mistakes.

Planning ahead: Good for sociability, entertaining etc. Morning of May 2, 5, evening of the 6, 7, after 8.15 p.m. of the 8, 11, 12.

Bright-Eyed 'Hi!' and a Big Doll

After lying unconscious for nearly seven weeks, four-year-old Doreen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Sanders, 236 Cadillac, smiled up at her mother yesterday. Victim of a traffic accident, Doreen has twice undergone brain surgery. Jubilee Hospital authorities yesterday praised her gallantry, and added: "She's getting well." Doreen's blonde locks had to be shaved off before surgery.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan)

Mother's Tears . . . . . Born of Happiness

Tiny Doreen Wakes at Last After Long Weeks in Coma

"I held her on my knee for the first time in six and a half weeks."

Mrs. Frederick J. Sanders had tears in her eyes; but they were born of happiness. For her four-year-old daughter Doreen, struck by a car on Gorge road as she left Sunday school, regained consciousness yesterday in her Jubilee Hospital bed for the first time since her accident.

Twice doctors have resorted to brain surgery to save the life of the child.

They told Mr. and Mrs. Sanders at 10 o'clock yesterday, there is "still a long pull ahead."

The parents were delighted, however, at the progress their daughter has made.

"When you see her improvement you can wait with patience," Mrs. Sanders said. "To hold her on my knee again—that was a wonderful feeling."

Doreen will be five May 11.

She had a big doll at her bedside yesterday; but she had eyes only for her mother when she came out of the coma.

Nevertheless, her parents are planning a birthday party for her, with the assistance and consent of the hospital authorities.

"People have been wonderful," Mrs. Sanders told The Daily Colonist. "Letters of encouragement came from perfect strangers. Prayers were offered for the little girl in many city churches.

"I hope these people are as happy as we are," Mrs. Sanders added.

For two weeks Mr. and Mrs. Sanders kept a bedside vigil at Jubilee Hospital day and night.

Today, for the first time, Doreen opened her eyes, saw her mother and said: "Hi!"

Heated Exchange

Drew, Howe Clash On Pipeline Issue

OTTAWA (CP) — A rapid-fire exchange of questions and answers on the natural gas pipeline occurred for the second straight day between cabinet minister and opposition members in the Commons Wednesday. The exchange was often heated.

And Trade Minister Howe indicated he has received a letter from Frank McMahon, Calgary gas executive. Mr. Howe refused to say what the letter contained.

Opposition leader Drew: Can the prime minister inform the House whether a decision has been reached as to the nature of the additional assistance to be given to Trans-Canada Pipe Lines and, if so, what are the terms of that assistance?

Prime Minister St. Laurent: No decision has been reached.

Mr. Drew: Has the minister of trade and commerce received a letter from Frank McMahon in regard to the proposed pipe line?

Mr. Howe: I have received a letter that I am free to table across the House.

Mr. Drew: I asked whether the minister has received a letter from Frank McMahon in regard to the proposed pipe line.

Mr. Howe: If I have received a letter, it is marked personal and confidential and that being the case, I am not prepared to say anything about it.

Mr. Drew: Then are we to understand that pipeline developments in this country are the private prerogative of the minister of trade and commerce?

'Pay Up—or Else . . .' Toronto Tells Ottawa

TORONTO (BUP) — Toronto threatened Wednesday to cut off municipal services for the federal government's refusal to pay taxes on $18,000,000 worth of Crown property.

Mayor Nathan Phillips ignored Ottawa's refusal as last spring no tax is due.

The department of external affairs asked Toronto to exempt taxes assessed by West properties purchased by West Germany for a consulate as an international courtesy.

Board of control wanted to know why municipalities were being asked to pay for services to consulates a federal responsibility.

Finance Minister Harris flatly refused Tuesday to consider any grant as assistance to municipalities.

Children Lost in Crush As Sale Sends Moms Wild

TORONTO (CP) — Every year at the Exhibition's horticultural building pets, pets, picture frames, lamps, children were separated from their mothers. On Wednesday, when hotel chain's rummage sale was given a one-day start, persons mainly women escaped a self-propelled start down on the Canadian National. Women fought to buy clothes, shades, window blinds, hats and other bric-a-brac.

An orgiastic scene developed in the lingerie section when two or more women got their hands on the same garment. One woman, her hair awry, was seen with the shoulder of her coat hanging off and her dress torn at the neck.

In the men's tie section a man was yelling: "Please, all I want is one tie, I'm on the night shift."

Two mounted police patrolled and six on foot were unable to cope with the crowds and the extra men had to be called in to assist.

All doors of the building were closed after one hour and loudspeakers appealed to women who had finished buying to leave to make room for 5,000 persons still outside.

Trains Ram On Bridge, Fall Below

GALT (CP) — Two Canadian Pacific Railway freight trains rammed each other on a bridge here Wednesday night and plunged into the street below. One man was killed and two others were injured.

The engines collided at the railway overpass 100 yards from the CPR station. The overpass collapsed and both locomotives plunged to the roadway.

The dead and injured were train crews members. They were pinned immediately identified. One of the injured was in serious condition.

Local railway officials said the cause of the pileup was not known but theorized one of the trains must have missed a signal.

French Slay 260 In Vicious Battles

ALGIERS (CP) — French troops have killed 260 Algerian rebels for the loss of 14 men in bitter fighting in the last 48 hours, reports reaching here Wednesday said.

Often the battles were vicious hand-to-hand clashes. In some the troops were aided by planes which sprayed the rebels with machine gun fire.

Twenty French soldiers were reported wounded in the fighting. The biggest clashes were in the Constantine department.

Swish, Saucer-Size Swiss Specimens Fill Bill as Ches Runs Out of Asters

Swiss botanist pansy seed now has been marketed in more than 3,000 readers who could not be accommodated with the Kirkwell asters originally offered by M. V. Chesnut.

The aster offer had to be limited to 4,000 because that was the entire supply of seed that Ches could track down in North America for his Garden Notes' fans.

The response from more than 7,000 persons was the greatest ever made to the Colonist seed offer.

However, Ches is just as enthusiastic about the pansies as he was about the asters. He describes them as saucer size blooms with extraordinary purity of color.

Sow very thinly in pots of woodsy soil. When the plants are one inch high, set out in beds enriched with leaf mold and bonemeal, in sun or partial shade.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

DO you think daylight saving time is a good thing? If so you had better keep quiet in the present of Bill Sheldrake, 2680 Forbes street, who has worked himself into a hostile state about that extra hour and is in a mood to bite ugly.

"My views on the subject are hardly printable," writes Bill. However he comes through with some remarks that make the grade, with a touch of censoring.

"As I am a mailman I have to be at work before 7 a.m. To get a decent breakfast entails getting up at 5.30 a.m. or soon after. This is already too . . . early to eat for me. I could enjoy my breakfast far better at 8 a.m.

"Now, under DST I must eat breakfast an hour earlier, and my stomach revolts at this. Consequently . . . I often skip breakfast altogether. This causes a very unpleasant hunger, which is not appeased until noon, if then.

* * *

"Also, it doesn't matter what . . . time you go to bed. It's the time you arise in the morning that counts. Mothers especially detest DST. Our children are usually in bed by 7. How . . . can you send children to bed at 7 DST with the sun shining? Consequently they are tired and hard to get up in the morning.

"Railroad men hate DST . . . Who gains by it? As far as I can tell a small minority, golfers mainly, and people who don't start work until 9 a.m. or later, or not at all." And Bill advances a number of other arguments against DST, all of which appear fairly sound.

He has met thousands who are opposed to DST. "My wife and I . . . think the originator of DST should have been strangled at birth," he says.

However, the people of B.C. voted for DST by plebiscite. For all I know, some of them may regret the way they voted. The people who support DST — and I have no thing against it personally — seem to be mild in their support. The opponents of it are very hotly opposed. So, I DST now, up or nonetheless every few years, like Wade and the others."

Someone sent me a "good luck" chain letter with a dark warning to send forward five copies to five people or else the rot would fall on me. I ignored instructions on the other hand good luck would come to me in four days.

I take the plain man's down-to-earth viewpoint on this superstitious claptrap. In their words I'm deadly scared of it. A couple of years ago I neglected to send one of these letters and I have had nothing but ill fortune since. Another child was born in our house and my wife refused to go back to work as a stenographer. Also my elder child was saved from drowning. These are just a few examples of the kind of ill luck I feared.

So I sent on the letter. "No good luck has come to me — unless you refer to an attack of hives and sore feet as good luck. One of the people I sent the letter to was a well-known citizen who handles the Colwood delivery contract in Saanich.

The day of luck was as follows," he reports. "Four a.m. ran splinter in my finger while loading papers. At 4.20 a.m. had puncture, opened trunk for spare, found it missing. Phoned friend to help. After waiting 45 minutes, phoned again, learned he had gone back to sleep. He arrived 5.20 a.m.

"Loaded papers in his car. At 6 a.m. ran out of gas. Went to farmhouse at Keating for gas and fell in open well. Luckily not too deep. Sheep farmer drained water or so of fuel from tractor. Couldn't start. Discovered it was frozen fuel.

* * *

"Farmer offered to drive his car with engine. After removing goat and two kids we started to started for Sidney. Arrived Bazan Bay 7 a.m. Found boy asleep at delivery point owing to late arrival. Papers for this boy had somehow been left in my car in the city. Went on to Sidney. Customer furious at waiting. Ran over carriers' bicycle and had to help boy out in his deliveries. Arrived James Island ferry. Ferry was halfway across.

"Farmer's car spluttering out of oil, low on water. Called at house, woke irate person. Filled up radiator with bucket from rain barrel, and used crankcase oil myself. At Customs House ran out of gasoline and complains about fumes at close range.

"Carrier boys had left for school. Turned to my car, paid farmer, found car radio, blanket, two hubcaps missing. Arrived my house 1 p.m. My lucky day, the latest delivery I have made in 2 years."

E & N Veteran On Last Run

James Oscar Drouh after 47 years service with the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway will bring the train Dayliner into the train shed depot for the night for the last time.

The veteran locomotive engineer started work with the E & N in 1909 as a wiper and in 1913 qualified as an engineer.

For nine years he has been behind the throttle on the daily passenger run between Victoria and Courtenay.

Mr. and Mrs. Drouh who were both born in Victoria celebrated their 43rd wedding anniversary yesterday.

Mrs. Drouh says she will be able to keep her husband busy in retirement. He has not been home very much these 47 years. Now we can do all the things we planned."

A PADRE IN PRINT

By REV. WILLIAM HILLS

Well it happened. It had to do so sooner or later. Last Sunday night I put a servant of God to sleep during the sermon.

[illegible]

But I was thankful for one thing. The lad did not snore and so I let him snuggle down in his chair next to the bishop's throne red cassock and all and brought even song to an end and left him alone in place.

He did come to before the last hymn finished with a smack of [illegible] and a cod wolf on his cheek from the arm of his chair he went about his duties and startled the curates.

A Poke or a Rap

[illegible] ince in the days of long sermons. Indeed the parish beadle was equipped with a poke in the back or a rap on the head he encouraged members of the congregation to sit up and take notice.

"See him," says Dickens, "on Sunday in his state coat, and cocked hat, with a large-headed staff for show in his left hand and a small cane for use in his right [illegible] of sterner stuff than our selves. So do I envy the preacher is expected to solve the riddle of the universe and save souls in the bargain — all within the compass of 20 minutes."

Even the politicians are allowed greater leeway.

"When I mention religion," said Dr. Thwackum, "I mean the Christian religion and not only the Christian religion but the Protestant religion and not only the Protestant religion, but the Church of England."

Two Hoes Sufficient

BY M. V. CHESNUT, ERHS

[illegible]

you've seen these ads — now you can

WIN $10,000

just give us your idea for a "where's my Pard" cartoon!

WRITE IT
I think it would be very funny to show a dog being offered beautiful red-tails from the table. Instead of gobbling them he just sits there and says "I here's My Pard"
DRAW IT
WHERE'S my Pard?
DO BOTH
This picture shows a dog until he dish in the mouth. His mistress is in bed, and he has come upstairs at 5 a.m. it's morning & ask "I here's My Pard" anyway you want to do it!

Here's probably the easiest contest you ever entered. All you need is an idea, and it can be very simple, showing a dog asking for Pard. You can express it any way you want to. And you don't have to be able to draw or write well to win. Winning ideas will be selected on the basis of the originality and humour alone.

Just put your dog in this situation. He wants Pard with its wonderful good meat taste. Beef, liver, chicken . . . he knows nothing is as good, or good for him, as one of these tasty, nutritious varieties of Pard. So he asks his master or mistress "Where's My Pard?" There are hundreds of ways he could do this. Up above we've shown you a few samples. Use figures, doodles, or just words alone . . . anything goes. First prize is $10,000 cash! And there are 50 runner-up prizes worth $100 each!

Services Must Be Maintained

THROUGHOUT Canada today the cost of municipal administration has gone steadily up because services have had to be provided for larger numbers of people. Here in the Greater Victoria region it is not therefore surprising to find the same trend. It seems inevitable that mill rates must go up this year in many British Columbia centres in response to direct and inescapable work waiting to be done. The four municipalities in this region have taken on in excess of 10,000 people in the post-war period. How could it be expected that their municipal costs will remain unchanged? The neglect of public services and failure to provide for adequate upkeep in civic plant could prove a very costly mistake.

In the last few weeks we have been impressed by the unfolding of essentially the same story in each of the Greater Victoria municipalities. Salaries have been increased because it is costing more to live. Salary lists are also larger because more individuals have had to be employed to do the job. Vitally needed repairs to road, sewer, lighting and other municipal responsibilities simply cannot be left undone. Police, fire and school services cannot be run on shoestrings. Municipal offices and buildings are being outgrown visibly. It must be apparent to reasoning individuals that if this is the real condition, and we believe that it is, adequate steps should be taken now if the Greater Victoria region is to keep abreast of the times.

In the municipalities' favor is the fact that school costs up to a standard level have been more stabilized. The provincial formula, still an innovation and subject to change, has made for more uniform civic levies in regard to the costs of education. Not withstanding that, Victoria for instance faces a sizable increase in its budgeted costs this year on school account; and other municipalities may have somewhat the same experience. In the city other pressure points concern adequate police numbers, a start with street and sewer renewals and other needs that have been put off too long. Such delays are more expensive in the long run than the obvious remedy: which is to do the job on a progressive planned timetable extending into the future.

This is not the time to argue that civic union would help every municipality in the Greater Victoria area. Unquestionably it would, but the several components of the region may be led to that decision by their own convictions one day. The immediate issue is the budgets of 1956. In our view they should be progressive programs. If that implies an inescapable increase in mill rates, citizens should be prepared to take a common sense and realistic view of the needs and the circumstances.

Broadmindedness on Liquor

EXTENSION to a limited number of approved restaurants, meeting high standards of service and reputation, of the privilege of serving spirits with meals reflects the liberal attitude of the Social Credit government towards the whole question of liquor in this province. It is the more noteworthy because of the fact that the government represents a political party made up largely of people who have no use for liquor and would prefer to see all forms of it abolished. In all phases of British Columbia's new liquor policy the government, regardless of its own private views on the subject, has shown itself responsive to the wishes of the majority of the electorate as expressed by plebiscite, and willing to profit by experience.

The rewritten Liquor Act was put into effect as an experiment with an assurance from the government that the original regulations would be modified on the basis of experience and to suit conditions as they became apparent. This is the first major change and it is pleasing to note that one of the purposes of it is to enable restaurants serving full-course meals to compete on equal terms so far as liquor is concerned with those holding hotel dining-room licences which enjoyed an advantage under the old regulations, especially in catering to tourists.

Another possible and equally gratifying reason for the widening of privileges is to be detected in the comment of Attorney-General Bonner in announcing the new plan. Since the act went into force two and a half years ago, he said, there has been no increase in the consumption of liquor attributable to the revised licensing system. That confirms the prediction of this paper and many other supporters of the liquor bill that the adults of British Columbia would not abuse liquor laws which accepted them as sensible people.

The extension of privileges for restaurants, like the Liquor Act itself, is an experiment and those who have voiced dissatisfaction with the initial limitation of scope should be patient. The indications are that if the plan is a success it will be expanded.

A National Cenotaph

IT may seem strange to some to read that a new national cenotaph will be erected in Ottawa by the federal government, recalling that there already is a national war memorial in the heart of that city. The words cenotaph and memorial in this instance, however, underline the desire for a second structure. A cenotaph is literally an empty tomb which can be all-embracing; a memorial is normally of specific connotation. The present fine monument near Parliament Hill is dedicated to the memory of the dead of 1914-18 alone and unlike most other war memorials across the country, invariably of cenotaph design, this inscription has remained unaltered.

The group of figures which is shown passing through the arch of the present Ottawa memorial, also, is associated with one war by reason of the uniforms, so that it cannot rightly represent all the dead of the several wars in which Canadian forces took part. The new cenotaph would encompass them all, the two world wars and the Boer and Korean wars alike. None would then go unrecognized, which should be a cardinal aspect of any national memorial of this kind. And a cenotaph tribute which recalls the gratitude of a whole nation is certainly most appropriate in a nation's capital.

The proposed national cenotaph is to include a memorial chamber in which will be placed a book of remembrance containing the names of the Second World War dead. The First World War book of remembrance is enshrined in the Peace Tower of the Parliament Buildings, and unless there was no room for it the scroll of the second war could fittingly have been placed there also. Other names should be included however, those of the South African and Korean campaigns. If as designed the new cenotaph is to be the centre of future national remembrance it should vindicate its embracing purpose by being the repository of the names of all the war dead it represents, even if this means duplicating the roll from the First World War.

Fear Thwarts Arms Talks

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

THE LATEST in the long series of Big Four disarmament conferences is about to end in the usual and expected way, without perceptible progress.

After a while someone will issue a new statement or the U.N. will pass another resolution and the unmerry-go-round will start up again.

The search for a new method of limiting arms and halting the arms race is real enough, but it is conducted against an unreal background.

The realities are that Russia would like to persuade people that she is forswearing the use of force in order to weaken the Western determination not to be surprised.

The West responds because it too would like to appear pacific, and disarmament is very good politics in the democracies.

Such reductions in the armed forces of any of the nations as have occurred or which may occur, have taken place as an economy measure, with scientific advances in firepower taking the place of a few men.

Thus, the London talks have been held at the very time when Russia and the United States are working feverishly on intercontinental missiles which will depend for their success not on accuracy, but on the width of their areas of destruction.

Both sides are acting out of fear.

The West fears that Russia, frustrated in her avowed campaign to take over the world by other means, will eventually attempt to do so by force. It is to ward off that in Communism the Russians have a dynamic weapon whose strength will be lost if its forward movement ever stops. It is also recognized that because of her monolithic government her leaders whoever they may be at any time can switch at will from smile offensives to shooting offensives.

In addition to wanting the power to back her expansionist program with threats, Russia fears that if she seems to be advancing too fast, the West would resort to preventive war.

The Russians are always saying that if trust could be established, all conflicts could be ironed out.

But trust cannot be established between nations which adhere to basic moral principles and nations which openly eschew moral principles as weakening.

Attempting to ignore this, and to establish trust in any single field before it is established in all fields, can only lead to futility.

Thinking Aloud

Gerald Waring

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

THEY say that TV changes human modes and who can doubt it, there is liable to be an increase in curvatures of the spine for instance. But think what it is doing to the women folk.

Yes kindly madams who wouldn't tramp on an earwig and gracious grandmas whose most violent utterance is "Dear me!"

Put them in front of a wrestling match and what a transformation!

There they sit, fists clenched muttering the most horrific imprecations under their breath of course since they are ladies. And when their favorite is underneath with some big behemoth twisting his foot into a triangle—well, they'd cheerfully club him with a sandpail.

Beauty is only skin deep as the cosmeticians know full well so it appears is the veneer of gentility.

And TV wrestling has cracked it wide open.

* * *

I am told that this form of art or entertainment is among the most popular of video attractions. And strange to say, quite understandable at that.

Actually these wrestlers if so they can be called are most unlovely to look at, even when they have their hair in curls.

Perhaps they are made up in the dressing room before they enter the ring but once there, on best behavior attitudes they are repressive.

Yet as psychiatrists say, dream.

You can watch them time in without a quiver of the pulse but in five minutes time you are taking sides. If a particularly bad man among them is gouging his opponent at every chance you find yourself clamoring for his why almost for his very life.

Indeed it wouldn't offend your susceptibilities if your man pared his ears right off.

As a matter of fact they do worse than that seemingly.

I say seemingly, for I'll the mayhem in view is genuine then at least I must hand them a palm for toughness. They'd have been stars in a Roman amphitheatre, fit to combat any cesta studded gladiator.

I saw two of them on TV not long ago, real ruffians of their trade. Ostensibly they were aristocrats, one was named Lord Something and the other Baron Somewhere, this being a box office attraction that pays dividends.

What a crowd of well dressed medieval fans packed the auditorium!

* * *

Anyway one of them was straight from the Neanderthal Valley with long wild caveman hair and more dirty tricks in his repertoire than ever a caveman thought of. He knuckled and knee, and rabbit-punched his man unmercifully until I cried to his victim to grab his mane and yank it out by the roots.

I was no more desirous than the lady spectator who waved her fist with obvious lethal intent.

That is what TV does to you, this queer affair known as a wrestling match. And as I say, they tell me that the gentler sex fall for these monsters as if they were Rudolph Valentinos. So that all over Victoria of a night nice young things and old ladies sit strung up to prehistoric pitch.

Of course male video fans like this fare too, which adds to the mystery of the whole thing. For if these wrestlers only pretend to be inflicting torture they are a fake; and if their diabolical tactics are real they are an unsavory lot.

Reports from Ottawa

PREMIER Leslie Frost of Ontario is, of course, a Conservative. Thus he and federal Health Minister Paul Martin make rather strange colleagues in their joint success in forcing federal action on national health insurance.

People here who have been behind the scenes in the negotiations which advanced health insurance to its present position as a concrete federal offer say that Frost ended up like the man who got a tiger by the tail and hasn't dared let go.

They point out that the premier's demand a year ago that Ottawa put health insurance on the agenda for the federal-provincial conference last October was voiced before the Ontario election.

It's true that Premier Frost pressed for the health plan in October after his election. Not to have done so would have disillusioned Ontario voters. But it is also true that Prime Minister St. Laurent's reaction to Frost's original demand had been so lukewarm as to leave the impression that Ottawa wasn't prepared to do anything, no matter how hard Frost pressed.

* * *

This theory as to Frost's part in advancing health insurance much publicity already may do the premier an injustice. But it is supported by Frost's show of enthusiasm and failure to take decisive action since the federal plan was laid before the provinces in January. Only two provinces, British Columbia and Saskatchewan, have pledged their participation. The Ontario government, in contrast with its pre-election impatience, is now modestly holding back.

However genuine or otherwise Ontario's objections to the federal plan may be, they started the moment Martin sat down after revealing details to the provinces at the January meeting. Treasurer Dana Porter of Ontario arose and objected to the fact that Ottawa would be paying only 19 per cent of the costs of health insurance in Ontario.

Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia also will have less than half their costs paid by Ottawa. Treasurer C. M. Fines of Saskatchewan spoke after Porter and rejected the Ontario argument. So did the representative of Alberta. Fines said that for years Saskatchewan had come to Ottawa as a "have not" province. Now it was here as a "have" province with its own provincial health insurance plan in operation. Fines said he was "delighted" with the federal cost-sharing formula even though Saskatchewan would get only 47 per cent of its costs from the federal treasury. By the have provinces accepting less, he argued, the real "have nots" the Atlantic provinces would be better able to extend the benefits of health insurance to their peoples.

* * *

But if Ontario is now reluctant, in Ottawa too there is less than unqualified enthusiasm. St. Laurent was opposed to this further incursion of government into the lives of citizens. But Martin with Frost's help overcame the PM's prejudices.

Martin is a sincere liberal. He believes wholeheartedly in government welfare measures. He finance Minister Harris, Foreign Minister Pearson and Fisheries Minister Sinclair were the main figures in the little group of ministers who fought for action now. They argued and the PM finally agreed that the government of Canada just couldn't afford to be derided any longer for its failure to implement this well-seasoned plank in its election platform.

It was great ball game with Frost pitching and Martin catching. But now people are observing the pitcher doesn't seem very happy with his victory.

So Easily Detained

By GREGORY CLARK

EXPERT motel tourists know how to telephone ahead from motel to motel making reservations for tomorrow. They know exactly how far they will travel each day, rising at 6 or 7 a.m. and reaching their next motel three to four hundred miles distant by 4 p.m.

But the type to which I belong is lucky to do 200 miles a day. And so uncertain are we at 9 a.m. as to the prospects for the day that it would be sheer nonsense to telephone ahead for accommodation. Anything could happen along the way. We are easily detoured. It might be a flock of yellow headed blackbirds, or a grayed egret standing like a dream in a roadside puddle. It could be nothing more than one of those open-air curio shops that detain us where they sell pottery, white porcelain ducks for the lawn and two-foot high, little negro boy statues in scarlet jackets holding lanterns. Much more likely what would detain my type of tourist would be taking a wrong turn on the highway.

It is my impression that the type I belong to is much more numerous than the experts. And that is why touring by motel is so exciting. At 3.30 p.m. the motels all stand empty, not a car parked on their trim gravel front drives. At 4 p.m. there are three cars already parked at the average motel you pass. Then suddenly somewhere between 4 p.m. and 10 minutes to 5 with a suddenness hard to credit every mile in the world fills up. "No vacancy" signs, printed or up in neon, greet you in those last frantic miles of 5 p.m.

There is a curious homelessness known only to motel tourists at 5 p.m. You feel like a motherless child a long way from home. Some ancient anxiety sweeping up on you from the past of all you ancestors, takes a strangely exciting grip on you. Maybe a little panic, or a sense of desperation, assails you at the thought of being homeless for the night.

Of course you always find one after all, usually not as pretty a one as any of the dozen you have passed in the last three towns since 4 p.m. So you swear tomorrow you will be up and about at 7 a.m. and so help you, you will take the very first one you reach after 4 p.m.

But some regret, or some little negro boy plaster statue, two feet high, with a scarlet jacket on, will bemuse you. And at 4 p.m. you will find yourself on a 10-mile stretch of winding highway, with only semi-abandoned farms along it every three miles. The rest just lonely thin pasture and ill-mended fences and heedless poor cattle. And the desperation has got you once again.

On the Record

Both Sides Are at Sea

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

IN the election campaign now under way in the United States contenders against the present administration are attempting to convince us that if they were in office they would handle American affairs more satisfactorily. In domestic matters their bids boil down to assessing the discontent of national groups and organized minorities with a view to increasing their own following and diminishing that of the Republicans. A party out of power in either branch of government must capitalize on discontents and grievances and try in fact to increase them, while a party in power must satisfy a majority that conditions are sufficiently satisfactory to warrant continuity.

The same holds true for foreign affairs except that here satisfaction or dissatisfaction is registered on a national level. It is not in general regional or the reflection of the frustrations of specific social or economic groups or organized minorities and indeed if these exercise undue influence it is difficult if not impossible to conduct a rational foreign policy at all.

* * *

In foreign relations the government does not act in behalf of groups within the nation but for the whole nation. And since foreign affairs concern relations with other states and the pattern of these relations is constantly changing, no country, however large and powerful, ever has a completely free hand. It must constantly analyze, reappraise and readjust its policies as the policies of other states change or the urgency of a given situation possibly unforeseen may demand.

The Democrats in attacking the foreign policy of the administration are weak. The Eisenhower administration in defending it is also weak. The plain fact of the matter is that both are at sea not because the Eisenhower administration has departed from that of its predecessor because it has not, but because that policy was designed and continued to meet a condition that no longer exists or exists in a greatly changed form.

It has changed because of developments outside the United States and beyond or outside its direct control, the chief of these being that Stalin died in Russia, that with him died the policy that was largely responsible for our own and that the new leaders have moved diplomatically into the Middle East where it may or may not be possible to obtain their co-operation for a policy that will relax tensions, avert war and protect the most vital Western interests.

* * *

Nor I submit that neither Mr. Stevenson nor Governor Harriman, nor Senator Kefauver can truthfully to the voters or people at large he would do more or less than President Eisenhower's plane. The only specific thing they have come up with is that they would "negotiate", send arms to Israel to redress the balance of armed power between Israel and the Arab states. But whether any one of them would actually have done so, had he already been in office, listening to the analyses of America's military advisers and foreign service officials is another question.

For it is not the Arab states who have upset the power balance in the Middle East, but the Soviet Union.

To repeat as the Democrats do, that we are "losing the cold war" is to say that we must take it up and intensify it along the pattern initiated by Mr. Truman, while what has created the present dilemma is the Soviets' diplomatic moves to end it, or to pursue it by very different means from Mr. Stalin's.

Plenty of hindsight criticism can be made, for instance of the policy of trying to herd all neutrals into the Western camp, but it can't be made by the Democrats who were jointly responsible for it.

With the Classics

The sun falls warm, the southern winds awake
The air seethes upwards with a stream's shiver
Each dip of the road is now a crystal lake
And every rut a little dancing river.
Through great soft clouds that sunder overhead
The deep sky breaks as pearly as summer
Out of a cleft beside the river's bed
Flaps the black crow, the first demure newcomer.
The last seared drifts are eating fast away
With glassy tinkle into glittering lakes.
Dogs lie asleep and little children play
With tops and marbles in the sun-bare places.
And I that stroll with many a thoughtful pause
Almost forget that winter ever was.

Valiant Hunter

I noticed with interest in the Colonist of April 24 a photograph of one of our valiant Canadians holding forth the lifeless body of one of British Columbia's most useful birds.

What a pity it is that so many of our well-intentioned hunters are unable to distinguish the harmful birds of prey from those which do untold good. No wonder that the population of rodents is on the increase. Okanagan farmers find it necessary to put a protective sheet of tin around the base of fruit trees to save them from the damaging effects of mice. We frequently read of towns in this province [illegible] to stamp out rabbits, gophers, etc., but what progress [illegible] gophers, the result of rodent attack. Surely it is only common sense to protect our natural hunters.

Mr. Gillespie reports that as he was walking through the woods the weekend prior to the tragedy the hawk swooped down toward him in a menacing manner. May I inform him that even a bombing bird can be a savage rival if disturbed when nesting, and I'm sure many of your readers have had the experience of being attacked by an indignant widow goose with chicks?

A few hawks are injurious — the goshawk, sharp-shinned hawk and Cooper's hawk. These can easily be recognized with a little practice, all have long tails and short rounded wings. These three species well deserve the attention of good shots, such as Mr. Gillespie. But let us not make the mistake of putting their innocent and beneficial cousins — the marsh hawk, the red-shouldered and red-tailed hawks — in the same class.

Bridegroom's Expenses

What are a bridegroom's expenses for a church wedding? This is often rather a puzzling question, but it need not be because his expenses are quite definitely prescribed by society usage.

Here is a list of what he has to pay for: the wedding ring, minister's fee, a/c, sexton's fee, marriage license, gift for bride, a gift for each bridesmaid which are alike and could be costume jewelry. Usually these are chosen after consulting the bride. Also, his bouquet and a/c, a small bouquet for each bridesmaid.

Then for himself: his best man and ushers a boutonniere. A gift for the best man, and two for each usher. Finally a car to take himself and best man to church, and car for bride and himself on leaving church and when leaving for the honeymoon.

It's just as taken from Etiquette in Canada, by Gertrude Prosser, a book of 400 pages with 50 pages devoted to wedding preparations.

The foregoing is occasioned because of reading a recent article on weddings in which it was suggested that the bride arrange with the bridegroom what he will pay for. This would be rather embarrassing. Much better to go by the rule.

Delay Bid Overruled

$48,500 Voted To Start Replacing Aged Sewers

Over the lone objections of Ald. Donald Smith, city council yesterday approved a $48,500 budget item for the first step in replacing systematically the city's aged sewers.

Ald. Smith wanted council to wait for a year. He suggested that by next year, business licence changes that he intends to propose might be in effect. The resulting increase in revenue, he suggested, would enable such program to be undertaken without increasing the mill rate.

Council took yesterday afternoon off, after a heated argument about it, but in a two-hour morning session cut another $13,800 from the provisional budget, bringing the total reduction so far to $33,272, less than half a mill.

When council started work on the budget Monday, the provisional rate stood at 15 mills, 2.5 mills higher than last year's final rate.

DEBATE DELAYED

Postponed again yesterday was debate on two items in public works estimates that may lead to $10,000 or $20,000 being added to the budget.

Both items, permanent street maintenance and new street construction, were cut in committee and Ald. Arthur Bowen has indicated he will fight to have the original estimates at least partly restored.

Ald. Smith, seeking a delay in the sewer replacement program, said he intended to put before council "before many days" a business licence proposal that would mean collecting an extra $150,000 to $200,000 a year from big businesses.

Other aldermen, however, noted that previous councils had rejected plans to change the business licence system, and Ald. W. J. Burden argued that delaying public works replacement a year could lead to having to borrow large sums of money. Ald. Smith gained no support.

MAJOR SAVING

Council pared only $250 from garbage estimates, and made its major saving of the session on a special public works item of $15,300 from new traffic signals, from which it cut $10,300.

Part of the estimate was for continuing the standardization of traffic signals. (The city began last year to replace two-light, red and green signals with three-light, red, amber and green signals.)

Ald. Thomas Cross suggested that since no one knew what changes would be recommended as a result of the forthcoming survey by a consulting traffic engineer, the estimate be cut to $5,000.

City Engineer James Garnett argued, without success, that council had already approved the principle and the locations of new traffic signals, and that no traffic engineer would ever perpetuate some two-light and some three-light signals.

LONDON (CP) Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden plans to visit the United States next year after the presidential elections, authoritative sources said Wednesday.

Emasculate All Known Perverts Liberal Women's Group Demands

VANCOUVER (CP) The Lady Laurier Club, an organization of Liberal women, has called for emasculation of all known sex perverts, it was learned here Wednesday.

A resolution "strongly recommending" this step will be sent to Ald. Anna Sprott attending a meeting of the National Federation of Liberal Women in Ottawa.

The club will ask Mrs. Sprott to present the resolution to the federal women's resolutions committee for action.

The Lady Laurier Club passed it after dean of education at the University of Saskatchewan recommended an isolation centre for deviates.

"Just sending them to jail or to mental hospital doesn't help at all," he said. "Some deviates can't be completely cured by present psychiatric methods."

NO SOLUTION

He said emasculation was not the solution. Even after emasculation the sex drive remains, he said.

He said Canadians should not let their perspective be distorted by such crimes as the Carolyn Moore slaying.

Dr. Laycock said a mere handful of Canadian children under 14 were killed by sex deviates in 1954 compared with hundreds of deaths by fire, drowning, car crashes and other accidents.

GIRL SLAIN

It was the second suggestion on the problem since the weekend slaying of Carolyn Moore, 8, in Langley, B.C., 30 miles east of here. Perry deKhand Gerald Eaton, 16, is charged with murder in the bludgeon slaying.

Humble Fishing Trawler Nets Atomic Submarine

POINT PLEASANT, N.J. (AP) — The dramatic [illegible] of what happened when the world's largest submarine [illegible] of a fishing trawler came to light Wednesday.

The United States Navy officially confirmed that for 10 action-packed minutes two weeks ago, the 67-foot trawler Jennie had the navy's pride and joy, the atom-powered submarine Nautilus, in its 80-foot wide net.

[illegible]

What they didn't know then was that mixed in with the little fish was a huge "fish" — the Nautilus, on her way to home base at Groton, Conn., about 150 feet below water.

Suddenly the boat jerked to a standstill. It heeled over sickeningly. The skipper, Captain [illegible], shouted a question over the roar. "We must have picked up a sea serpent," one new member gasped.

"Sea serpent, hell!" Anderson shouted. "There ain't no fish that big. We must have tangled with a submarine."

[illegible]

Chief Inspector of Schools Investigating Student Strike

NANAIMO. F. P. Lewis, chief inspector of schools for the province, arrived here Tuesday to study the report of a special committee investigating the student strike at Nanaimo High School last week.

More than 100 senior high students, from Grades 11 and 12, last month refused to go to classes. When the school opened at 9 a.m. April 19 they conducted an hour-long demonstration, claiming that principal I. B. Lilly was too strict about extra-curricular activities.

Mr. Lewis said: "I intend to see everybody in any way concerned in this matter." Mr. Lewis said after which I will make my report to Education Minister Ray Williston who will doubtless in due time advise the school board.

SPORTS REVUE

By Jimmy Cannon

The Kentucky Derby resembles a country fair more than it does a sporting event. It's not a social series, a heavyweight championship fight or anything else. There is much that is wrong with it but it's still the greatest horse race promoted in this country.

All kinds of strange people get here at Churchill Downs Saturday. You'll see so-called sports writers, a thousand or so [illegible] and a lot of people who never see a horse race. Youth, [illegible] an opportunity never have to come to Louisville. Dr. Vicks men him every year and consider it a highlight a place.

Chesty Chet Mixes Psychology with Pitching

By WAYNE SARGENT

[illegible]

"HALF ARM PITCH"

When Chesty is ahead of a batter he may lob the ball toward home plate in a rainbow arc with all the ferocity of the Bobbsey Twins playing pat ball. Then he dives behind the mound like Audie Murphy hitting his foxhole.

PLEASES FANS

The "nuclear fission pitch" is a crowd pleaser. Chet swings his arms in counter rotating circles like propellers on an airplane. Then Johnson's hat "explodes" toward first base, his glove "mushrooms" toward third and the ball "blasts off" toward home plate.

SOME FOR LAUGHS

Film Story True to Life

Buster Keaton Tragic, Too

"The Buster Keaton Story," that begins shooting at Paramount next month, will be in the manner of "Love Me or Leave Me" and "I'll Cry Tomorrow."

Although he is 60, Keaton can do falls that startle the younger O'Connor. One day during the script conference Buster leaped to his feet and did a back somersault while holding a full cup of coffee. It his hand. O'Connor is still mad a few cups to learn this trick.

O'Connor fits neatly into the role. He has always been a lover of the silent screen and pantomime comedy. He did five such sketches for his television series. And it was his idea to put such veterans as Francis X. Bushman, Minta Durfee, Conrad Nagel and Blanche Sweet into The Buster Keaton Story.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) - Fairly aggressive demand for barley and rye dominated trade on the Winnipeg grain exchange today. There were reports of export sales of barley to the United Kingdom and disposals of rye to the continent.

Prices of the two grains were higher in response to the export demand although trade showed signs and prices were steady.

Activity in flax increased and there was evidence of export interest with some modest sales to the United Kingdom. Prices were also higher.

WHY HESITATE
WHY TAKE A CHANCE

The ideal engine for yachtsmen: Perkins Marine Diesel Engines achieve a "Day Follows Night" dependability through fine engine design, carried out to meticulous production standards. The smooth balanced performance of these Diesel engines reaches a degree of refinement unusual for marine propulsion—instant push-button cold starting—lightest weight—utter reliability—vibration free. Whether you are building a luxury cruiser or a "workaday craft," you cannot do better than install a PARSON'S FORD MARINE DIESEL. Double your cruising range and banish all fear of explosion and fire.

"INTERCEPTOR"

For fast cruisers and runabouts, the Marine Sensation of 1956. The only gasoline marine engine with a patented built-in safety carburetor. No gas in the bilge, special micro mounts. This smooth-vibration-free overhead valve engine delivers more actual horsepower at the propeller than was formerly possible in engines of comparable displacement.

"223" SERIES SIX

This efficient short-stroke 6-cylinder O.H.V. "223" cu. in. Replacement with the finest balanced crankshaft ever put into a marine engine delivers more power on less fuel than any other "six" in its displacement class.

BARGAINS

We have some bargains in used marine engines, including a handed pair of "226" 86 H.P. Gray Marine.

Rita Del Mar's Daily Astrology

THURSDAY, MAY 3

Today's quotation: "It is better that a judge should lean on the side of compassion than severity." —Cervantes.

Thursday for everyone: Recheck decisions in connection with business, professional matters, home, family affairs, real estate interests. Shun haste; defer important moves, changes.

Look for Your Birthdate and Birthsign Below

March 21 to April 19 (Aries)—Pick and choose your company and associates with an eye to avoiding those combinations which clash.

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus)—The business and career picture is still in a process of change and new developments. Pursue routine tasks.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—Be prepared to change your plans on the spur of the moment and defer unnecessary travels.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer)—This is a time when some element of secrecy or privacy is to the fore. Effect savings where possible.

July 23 to Aug. 22 (Leo)—Be aware of possible contradictory views and ideas and make necessary compromises cheerfully.

Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 (Virgo)—Make few unnecessary changes and concentrate on routine tasks and service interests.

Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 (Libra)—Freedom is curtailed today. Do not take undue chances. Accept changes philosophically but do not precipitate them.

Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 (Scorpio)—Don't be surprised if some unexpected visitors or events disrupt routine. Get out a while and relax.

Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius)—If you have any trip scheduled, take it easy. The day suggests caution in transit, communication of ideas and general relationships.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 (Capricorn)—Keep an eye on income and outgo this day and adjust to circumstances where accounts are concerned.

Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 (Aquarius)—Use diplomacy in dealings with those to whom you look for favor or preference. Curb restlessness.

Feb. 19 to March 20 (Pisces)—Attend to those matters which require confidential handling, but use care, discretion. Stay in the background.

Planning ahead—Good for sociability, entertaining, etc.: May 5, evening of the 7, after 8.15 p.m. of the 8, 11, 12.

Baggage Car Is Fan Headquarters

Model railroad fans of North Bay, Ont., have added a touch of authenticity to their railway building by setting up an abandoned baggage car as their headquarters. There the 28 model enthusiasts—five of them employees of the CNR or CPR—have set up a miniature rail system complete with miles of wiring, yards of tracks and mountain landscaping. Here George Thompson, secretary-treasurer of the club, sets the cars in motion for the benefit of Susan Nelson. —(CPC)

Binny Judges Cowichan Shows

DUNCAN—The eighth annual Cowichan Schools Drama Festival opened Tuesday night with three plays which H. B. Binny of Victoria called "very nice plays throughout."

Mr. Binny gave adjudications in the way of advice and criticism, but did not select any play as winner. The festival will continue today and tomorrow, and on Saturday three plays which Mr. Binny selects as worthy of a second performance will appear at a special session at which awards will be made.

The drama festival is held under the direction of the Community programs branch of the department of education. Mr. W. B. Wallace, director of the branch attended the opening session.

Plays Tuesday were: "Cinderella Married," presented by Cowichan High School (juniors), directed by Mr. G. Corsan.

Queen Margaret's school for girls played "The Pied Piper," directed by Miss N. C. Denny, and the Cowichan Players, a senior group from Cowichan High School, presented an original play by their director, T. C. Matheson, entitled "Catch a Falling Star."

Wednesday there were two plays, "Kings In Nomania," by Duncan Elementary School, Grade 6, and "Tudor Thorns," by Queen Margaret's School for Girls.

'Vive Le Roi' Cry Still Is Sounded

LOUVECIENNES, FRANCE, (NANA) — A dwindling but still substantial number of Frenchmen scorn the French republic as thoroughly illegal. To them, France's rightful ruler is a friendly, middle-aged man who bears an astonishing resemblance to Walt Disney.

Though the French haven't had a monarch in more than 85 years, "Vive Le Roi" continues to be a slogan seen frequently chalked on walls and buildings. The "Roi" referred to is 47-year-old Henri D'Orleans, the count of Paris.

In something of the manner of a well-to-do gentleman farmer, the heir of nine centuries of French Kings lives in this little village an hour's drive from Paris, ignored but not wholly forgotten by his countrymen.

He and his wife, called the prettiest princess in Europe when they were married 25 years ago, have 11 children ranging in age from 8 to 23.

They live a self-contained family life in their rambling country house. The count and his wife, also a D'Orleans by birth, care very little for social life.

They were not invited to Grace Kelly's wedding, though compared to the count of Paris, the Prince of Monaco is a relative newcomer among European royalty.

The count is not often invited to royal functions in other countries for fear of offending the French government. He smiles wryly and says that this saves him a good deal of trouble.

The count gives no aid or comfort to what is left of the Royalist faction in French politics, a group that still wields some influence, especially in the church. For this, ardent royalists tend to look on him with some coolness.

Portable TV Next

Portable television sets have arrived to plague the man who felt safe when he left the room. Easily carried, as demonstrated by Jean Leslie, with a built-in antenna and a 10"-inch screen, "personal TV" will soon be rolling off the production lines. The set weighs under 17 pounds, and is less than nine inches high, 11 inches wide and 14 inches deep. "It's smaller than a bread box," the manufacturer says, but will cost around $150.—(CPC).

'Chubby, Child-Like Hands'

Red Recruits Gone Soft, Army Officer Complains

NEW YORK (NANA)—Modern conveniences and soft living have conspired to lower the military suitability of new Russian recruits, Red army officers report.

City-bred draftees are now arriving in camp with lily-white hands untouched by toil, the Communist brass complains. Even worse, many youths have to be taught how to chop wood and wield a mop.

Writing in the newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda, Red army Lieut. V. Fomin called on Soviet mothers to cut their sons loose from their apron strings before they are completely spoiled. He criticized parents who take great pains with their children's mental training but ignore their physical development.

"Sometimes parents put harmful ideas in their children's heads. They tell them: 'If you study hard you won't have to do physical labor. You will be a boss or a leader.'"

As a result of such bad advice, Lieut. Fomin declared, the Red army finds itself with such recruits as Pvt. Shaumyan.

"Pvt. Shaumyan is a short fellow with a delicate, effeminate face and chubby, child-like hands," the officer said. "When one of the noncoms told Shaumyan to mop the floors, the recruit replied in amazement:

'We wash floors? I don't know how.'

"The noncom then asked Shaumyan if he had ever chopped wood. He answered that his apartment was now equipped with gas. He even said he'd never had to carry water because his parents have a bathroom.

"Finally Shaumyan was asked just what he could do. He replied: 'I can press my trousers.'"

Lieut. Fomin noted that Pvt. Shaumyan came from a fine family. His father was an engineer, his mother a teacher.

"They taught him to love literature and science, but didn't expose him to physical labor. One must ask these parents: for what kind of life are they preparing their son?"

B.C. Electric Plans

Gas Rate Reductions Will Soon Be Filed

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C. Electric will soon file its natural gas rate schedules before the public utilities commission in Victoria, a company spokesman said Tuesday.

No definite date had been set for the submission, but it would be "in the near future."

He said company officials had made several visits to Victoria since November when the company first announced tentative reductions in cost to natural gas users on the lower mainland.

Tentative reductions compare favorably with schedules released yesterday by the Washington Natural Gas Company of Seattle which will serve western Washington points.

The American firm said gas rates would be slashed by $1,871,217 yearly with an average saving of 38 per cent annually on the gas bill.

B.C. Electric said earlier that householders would get an approximate 25 per cent cut in domestic cooking, water heating and appliances; 40 per cent cuts on domestic space heating; 30 per cent reduction on commercial rates.

REPLACEMENT IN FALL

Natural gas is expected to replace manufactured gas in the company's mains late this fall. It will be brought in from the San Juan fields of Colorado and New Mexico and delivered to B.C. Electric at Huntingdon.

In late 1958 when West Coast Transmission completes its 650-mile $150,000,000 pipeline from the Peace River country, American gas will be substituted by Canadian.

Did You Ever Pet A Snake?

OTTAWA (CP) — Herpetologist Sherman Bleakney believes those who are lonely and hankering for a clean, quiet pet should own a snake.

The national museum worker says snakes are unjustly abused by mankind. They are not slimy, as commonly believed, but spotlessly clean.

Many snakes, he said, are not objectionable to touch when you're used to them and most provide absorbing subjects of study.

FEW SPECIMENS

Bleakney, who has been interested in snakes for many years, keeps a few specimens in glass bottles or metal cages. He has not the least hesitation in reaching in and pulling out a handful of them, even though some are poisonous.

"They just never have the notion to bite anybody," he explains.

A herpetologist is a scientist who delves into the realm of things creepy and crawly, slippery and scaly, denizens of the reptile and amphibian world. They're wizards with lizards so to speak.

FRIENDLY REGARD

Bleakney's friendly regard for the slithery creatures is not shared by his fellow workers at the museum. Even Mrs. Bleakney is not too keen about snakes although she is a former botanist.

Zambezi Development Vast

Biggest Bridge, Market, Dam Part of Rhodesian Growth

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (NANA)—The longest bridge, biggest tobacco market, and largest dam—still under construction—in the world are in the federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

Further claims to greatness here include two of the world's longest railway platforms and most magnificent waterfall.

Giant of the future is Kariba dam on the Zambezi river. It is expected to produce its first power in 1960 and to be completed by 1971 at a total cost of $316,400,000.

Although its height of 410 feet will be less than the 727 feet of Boulder Dam or the 550 feet of Grand Coulee, Kariba will store nearly three times as much water as the other two combined. Kariba's storage capacity will be 35,000,000,000 gallons.

In addition to its uses for irrigation and flood control, Kariba dam will furnish much-needed power for northern Rhodesia's copper belt, which produces more copper than any place in the world except the United States.

LONGEST BRIDGE

The world's longest bridge, which straddles the Zambezi and its swampland from Sena to Dona Ana. Full length of the trans-Zambezi bridge is 11,322 feet, as against a mere 6,260 feet for the Golden Gate bridge in San Francisco.

Still a third wonder of the Zambezi is Victoria falls, 343 feet high to Niagara's 167 feet, and 1,500 feet wide to Niagara's 1,300 feet.

Though there are 80-odd marketing centres in America, they are all small stuff next to Southern Rhodesia's Salisbury. During the last season 120,582,930 pounds of tobacco were auctioned there for $56,918,000.

Tobacco auction sales are conducted on two floors, the tobacco producers' floor and tobacco auctions limited. The producers' floor, the world's largest, covers over two acres and accommodates 90 rows of tobacco bales.

The world's longest railway platform is at Bulawayo, also in Southern Rhodesia. At the last measurement it was 2,437 feet, or 22 feet longer than the next longest platform in Sonepur, India.

They were R. L. Colby, Rod Hale, Bernard Atkins, Ken McAllister, George Simpson, Jack Price, Robert Fort, Jack Kemp and Barbara Davies.

Fire Damages City Factory

City firemen were at the presto log division of B.C. Forest Products Ltd. for an hour at 4.45 p.m. yesterday, fighting a blaze that damaged the roof of the building. Heavy use of water was required to soak sawdust.
